Wary SKM wants proposal rework on setting up MSP panel, axing cases

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

A panel set up by the Samyukt Kisan Morcha (SKM), an umbrella body of farm unions, on Tuesday sought clarifications and amendments on a set of draft proposals the Union home ministry sent to it in writing to address their demands and facilitate ending their year-long protest. The panel hopes to discuss the ministry's response on Wednesday to take a call.

While the draft said a committee comprising representatives from the Central and state governments, experts and representatives of SKM and other farmer outfits will be formed to look into the demand for a legal guarantee on the Minimum Support Price (MSP) mechanism, the SKM does not want other farmer unions in it. The SKM is unwilling to allow space to outfits that were not part of the agitation, said senior leader Balbir Singh Rajewal.

Second, the draft says all criminal cases against farmers will be withdrawn after the agitation ends. "We will not accept it. The government should immediately begin the procedure to withdraw cases in a time-bound manner. The Punjab government has already announced its decision to drop the cases," Rajewal said.

Third, the draft has in principle agreed to give compensation to farmers who died during the course of the agitation. "Our count of the toll is 700. The Centre can follow the Punjab model, which involves ₹5 lakh compensation and a government job to the next of kin," said Ashok Dhawale, another senior SKM leader.

Fourth, on the proposed electricity amendment bill, the Centre says it will bring a bill in Parliament after due diligence and talks with all stakeholders, but the matter is already on the winter session's legislative agenda. "During talks held earlier with the SKM, the government had said it would not bring this bill in Parliament," pointed out Dhawale.

Fifth, on stubble burning, the Centre had assured that there will be no criminal liability on farmers. "But amendments in the Air Quality Management in the National Capital Region and Adjoining Areas Act 2021 have made stubble burning punishable in Section 15. It should be amended," added Dhawale.

IISc researchers find a gas to suppress HIV

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

RESEARCHERS at the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) and their collaborators have identified a key role played by hydrogen sulphide (H2S) gas in suppressing the Human Immunodeficiency Virus. They have discovered the direct effect of H2S reducing the rate at which the virus multiplies in HIV-infected human immune cells. The finding paves the way for developing a more comprehensive antiretroviral therapy against HIV.

The current combined antiretroviral therapy (cART) is not a cure for HIV. It can only suppress the virus. In some cases, cART is known to fail even when patients fully follow their drug regimen. Certain negative effects are also associated with it, like build-up of toxic molecules leading to 'oxidative stress' and loss of function in the mitochondria, the cell's powerhouse. CONTINUED ON: P7

Amid Covid worry, KPSC aspirants to write exams away from home

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

EVEN as there is a resurgence of Covid in different parts of the state, close to 60,000 aspirants who have applied for assistant engineers and junior engineer posts in the Public Works Department will have to travel 500 to 700 km from their hometowns to write the Karnataka Public Service Commission exams for two days on December 13 and 14. Most of the aspirants have been assigned examination centres far away from their hometowns.

This, KPSC officials said, is to avoid malpractice as aspirants will not have any local support. But the candidates are apprehensive that they have to travel long distances at a time when Covid cases are rising. Also, they have to spend a lot more on travel and stay as the exams are on two days. The candidates came to know about their examination centres only on Monday with exams just a week away.

Shashidhar (name changed) from Kalaburagi, has to come all the way to Bengaluru to write the exam at a centre in Vijayanagar. "I wrote the exams in 2019, but they were scrapped because of legal reasons. I downloaded my hall ticket on Monday night and it mentioned my centre as Bengaluru. I cannot miss the exams as I have been preparing for the last three years. Travelling all the way from Kalaburagi to Bengaluru and staying at a hotel or a room adds to my expense," he said.

Priya (name changed), from Hassan has been assigned a centre at Yelahanka. She has to travel five hours to reach Bengaluru.

The previous, scrapped exams were held in 2019 during the previous JDS-Congress coalition government. The applications were called for in March to fill 870 engineer posts -- 570 assistant engineers and 300 junior engineers. The exams were conducted in June 2019 and the BJP came to power in July. P4

SPICEJET TO APPEAL HC WINDING-UP ORDER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai / New Delhi

A day after the Madras High Court ordered the winding up of SpiceJet over its failure to make payments to a Swiss maintenance, repair and overhaul (MRO) service provider, the private carrier said on Tuesday that it was planning to appeal.

SpiceJet owes around $24 million to Zurich-based SR Technics, with which it has a 10-year agreement to avail MRO service. On Monday, the single-judge bench of Justice R Subramanian allowed the petition by Credit Suisse AG, which had been assigned the right to receive payments due to SR Technics and ordered that the airline be wound up. The operation of the verdict was, however, stayed for three weeks following a plea by the airline on condition that SpiceJet deposit $5 million with the court in two weeks.

The court rejected the airline's contention that SR Technics did not possess DGCA's approval from 2009 to 2015, saying the airline had availed of the services.

SpiceJet said the Swiss firm made the "fraudulent misrepresentation" of having DGCA approval. This, the company said, is contrary to Indian and other applicable laws and therefore, makes the entire agreement infructuous. "Since the agreement falls and is void, Credit Suisse as an assignee does not and cannot have any claim against the Company," SpiceJet said.

The company is examining the order and initiating appropriate remedial steps including preferring an appeal before the appellate jurisdiction within the timeframe allowed by the Madras High Court. The company believes it has a good case on merits and is hopeful of having a favourable outcome in the appeal — SpiceJet

1% Indians own 20% of national income

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE gap between the haves and have-nots in India widened further in 2021, according to the World Inequality Report 2022, released on Tuesday. Authored by Lucas Chancel, co-director of the World Inequality Lab, and coordinated by famed French economist Thomas Piketty, the report notes that the top 1% of India's population owns more than one-fifth of the total national income and the top 10% owns 57% . In contrast, the bottom half owns just 13%.

"India stands out as a poor and very unequal country, with affluent elite," said the report by the World Inequality Lab, which does work through evidence-based research on inequality worldwide.

According to the report, the average household wealth in India is ₹9,83,010, with the bottom 50% owning almost nothing as their average wealth is a paltry ₹66,280. The middle class is also relatively poor, with an average wealth of ₹7,23,930. At the same time, the top 10% of the population owns around ₹6,354,070, while it's a massive ₹32,449,360 for the top 1%.

The report notes that India's liberalisation policies have led to one of the most extreme increases in income and wealth inequality observed in the world. While the top one per cent has largely benefited from economic reforms, growth among low and the middle income groups has been relatively slow and poverty persists.

Gender inequalities are also very high in the country. The female labour income share is equal to 18%. This is significantly lower than the average in Asia, excluding China, at 21%.

Billionaires' wealth soars

The share of global wealth held by billionaires registered a record surge during the pandemic. Around 2,750 billionaires own 3.5% of the world's wealth now, up from just 1% in 1995

UIDAI can issue Aadhaar right after child's birth

Karnataka second state to launch process

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI) recently commenced a system where the birth certificate of a newborn is directly accessed from a state government portal to issue Aadhaar cards to those below five years old. With this, Karnataka becomes only the second state after Haryana to kickstart the Aadhaar Linked Birth Registration (ALBR) process.

UIDAI Deputy Director Ashok Lenin said this does away with the system of parents submitting physical certificates from hospitals when applying for an Aadhaar card for a newborn. "We have integrated our system with the e-JanMa portal run by the state government which makes it possible. When the portal is accessed, it auto-populates the required data," he explained.

E-JanMa is run by the Karnataka government's Chief Registrar of Births and Deaths office. "With biometrics not possible with infants, the birth registration number is used and other details are taken from the Aadhaar card of one of the parents. The child can add the biometrics (fingerprints and iris) when he or she turns five, and for another update of biometrics after turning 15. Both services are free," he said.

The new system will help parents as many are keen to get Aadhaar cards for their children as soon as they are born to ensure they benefit from various government schemes, particularly Bhagyalakshmi -- which extends financial aid to girl children.

UIDAI data reveals that Karnataka has only 35.5 per cent of children in the 0-5 age group who have been given Aadhaar cards. While 100 per cent of those in the 18-plus age group have Aadhaar cards, 99.4 per cent in the 5-18 years category have them. In all, 6,56,64,615 people have been issued Aadhaar cards in the State (stats up to November 30, 2021).

Lenin said that for disabled citizens and those not able to make it to Aadhaar centres, services are made available at their doorsteps.

MIT TO HOLD ONLINE EXAMS

Late Tuesday evening, Manipal Institute of Technology (MIT) announced that it had shifted its semester 5 and 7 examinations for undergraduate students, and third-year MCA exams online. This comes in the wake of protests by students against offline examinations, suspecting a number of cases on campus. MIT Director Anil Rana, however, stated that there are no Covid-19 cases on campus, and mass testing is going on. The Covid-19 monitoring committee of Manipal Academy of Higher Education has reassessed the prevailing Covid situation in the state. Having analysed all pros and cons in depth, the committee has reached a unanimous decision that the Covid-19 scenario, especially with the threat of the Omicron variant spread, is worrisome. Students, however, were apprehensive about the online proctored examination as electricity and internet issues remain a concern when taking the examination.

Colleges hiding Covid cases: Students

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @ Bengaluru

WITH the onset of the examination season, students believe that college authorities are suppressing data on Covid cases. A survey by Manipal Institute of Technology students on offline examinations, scheduled to be held from December 17 onwards, suggests that 80 per cent of the 1,443 respondents believe that Covid-19 cases are being suppressed.

A majority of the students believe they should be marked based on their past achievements, while another large section of students said examinations should be held online, and 84.6 per cent said they feared the Omicron variant. A majority of the respondents were second-year students. More than half the students said they know of someone, family or friends, who are infected with Covid.

A student from the college said that after much persuasion, the administration agreed to conduct mass testing to identify Covid cases. However, instead of enforcing testing and sharing results, MIT has been suppressing data and projecting normalcy.

> Several students are taken away in ambulances on a daily basis and Covid has begun affecting students and faculty at MIT
> A student

"Several students are taken away in ambulances on a daily basis and Covid has begun affecting students and faculty at MIT," the student added, saying it is irresponsible to hold offline exams and impractical to offer re-exam opportunity in the last week of January as an alternative to students who are supposed to start internships in the first week of January.

Terming the Covid cases as rumours, MIT Director Anil Rana said the ambulances are for other health cases. Almost 2,000 students have been tested so far and there are zero cases, he said.

Meanwhile, a student, purportedly from Mount Carmel College in Bengaluru, confessed in an audio clip about testing positive in the last week of November. Students claimed there were positive cases while college authorities said there were none.

The principal had told The New Indian Express on December 4 that there was no positive cases. and that a BBMP team was on campus on December 3 to test students, and the results had come in.

However, she did not respond on Tuesday.

Docu film on Gauri will track her activism, pay tribute to her courage

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THEY say art is cathartic. This is true for those who gather strength and rise above their pain and anguish to tell the story of their loved ones, who stood up for rights of the underprivileged, and lost their lives to mindless acts of hate.

Noted Kannada film director Kavitha Lankesh, who has been seeking justice for her slain sister, the acclaimed activist and journalist Gauri Lankesh, is now making a documentary on Gauri, her activism and penchant for sticking her neck out for the rights of the downtrodden. The documentary is one of four entries worldwide on impunity for crimes against journalists, rewarded by the Free Press Unlimited, Amsterdam.

"Last year, they had called for proposals for documentaries on journalists who have lost their lives in war, or an act of violence in the line of duty. There were around 300 proposals out of which Free Press accepted four entries. One of them was mine," Kavitha told TNIE. She said that before submitting the proposal to Free Press, she had asked herself whether she would be able to weather the trauma yet again – of tracking and filming the life of her sister, whose journalistic career was dotted with her activism, till that fatal evening of September 5, 2017, when Gauri was assassinated just inside her house in Rajarajeshwari Nagar.

The Special Investigation Team (SIT) instituted by the then Congress-led Siddaramaiah government had arrested and charge-sheeted 18 accused, who reportedly claim allegiance to some fringe right-wing groups. "To do the film was a tough decision to take because Gauri was more than a sister to me. She was my friend, mentor and soul keeper. I have still to come to terms that she is not around. Making the film meant going back to those traumatic memories. But I felt that I must tell the story of this woman, who knew no fear when it came to fighting for justice and Constitutional rights of people," said Kavitha.

The documentary is in its final stages of completion and should be done in early 2022, she added. "The film captures the life of Gauri soon after she took over our father's publication, Lankesh Patrike, in 2000 and her activism. The documentary is likely to be premiered in a film festival in The Netherlands.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

08th December: I need to say a little about the nature of Full Moons. One fascinating thing about this event is that men respond to it differently from women. This opens the possibility that the cosmos is, in some strange way, conditioned to favour different sexes at alternating periods. I think we need to do further research!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
As long as Mars is stirring up your emotions you are liable to fly off the handle, which is a shame considering how well disposed people are to your plans. Let me reiterate the same advice I have given several times in recent weeks: always consult partners and discuss your plans fully before going ahead.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Day by day there is little change in your romantic situation, so in a sense the same advice holds good for the whole week: keep a close watch on your finances, moving with care to put yourself in an unassailable position. If you're handling children today, be warned - nothing can convince them they're not right.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
According to the new psychological understanding of astrology, our happiness is dependent on our inner state of being rather than on external events. Therefore, judging from the condition of your planets, this has to be a most enjoyable and profitable period, though only if you indulge your nostalgia for the past.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
The mysterious twelfth house of your solar chart is still the focus of attention, and there may be far too much going on behind closed doors for you to feel at ease. On the other hand, you are quite capable of looking after yourself. Today is a day to press on with important jobs regardless of short-term pressures.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Yet again, thanks to new lunar patterns, your stars are vibrant, vivacious and full of life. The long-term effects of your current solar alignments are unlikely to be clear for some time, but will eventually result in an encouraging sense that your life's goals are indeed within reach.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The Moon is now releasing you from certain of the unsettling domestic tensions which have added complications to your worldly ambitions. In spite of everything, this is a time which you will look back on with pride. What's best about today is that your serious Virgoan qualities are in fashion.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Such is your reputation, nobody ever expects you to go on the attack, lay down the law or drive a hard bargain. Yet this is exactly what you will be doing now that Mars, that most belligerent of planets, is arousing your worldly desires and professional ambitions. Friends will be surprised - even astonished.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
A deeper look at the current planetary pattern suggests that this is a time to go all out to prove your determination and true worth. It is the value you place on yourself, not on material accomplishments, which really counts. Both a job offer and increase in your earnings are on the cards over the next two weeks.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Sometimes even you have to back down and take the initiative in diffusing highly-charged situations. Please realise that you have far more to gain from other people than they do from you, and act accordingly. While life is running your way, you can afford to lower your guard and make peace with rivals and foes alike.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Some would say that this simply has to be the perfect moment to put on a show of strength and demonstrate your mettle. But be cautious, for Mars, in a profound alignment with your sign, indicates that in order to succeed, your strategy must be foolproof. In love, you must be prepared to pay whatever it takes to make a dream come true.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
This particular phase in your life is a highly creative one. Unfortunately the artistic lifestyle is not highly valued by our society, but if you are to avoid a future of frustration, you must break out and forge your own independent path. This is a particularly sociable day when even at work you'll do best as part of a team.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The one item of variety in the astrological scene today is provided by the Moon, giving you the chance to take time out from your usual routine and follow up one or two useful social contacts. Recent opposition from partners will now begin to die down, partly because they are less sure of their ground.

SA traveller's exit: Case against 5-star hotel

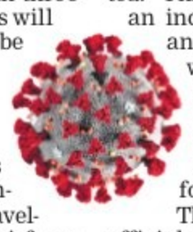
Lab also under scanner; Omicron +ve, he left the city on Nov 27; Authorities in talks with MEA on tracing him

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AFTER filing a case against Shangri La hotel, police officials and the BBMP health team are now checking the details of SRL Lab, which issued the negative test reports to the South African traveller, based on which he left the country from Bengaluru.

BBMP officials have slapped a notice on the sample collection centre in Jayanagar and the testing centre on Bannerghatta Road, directing them to submit details within three days, failing which FIRs will be filed and action will be taken against them.

BBMP, health and police officials are now in talks with the Ministry of External Affairs and South African consulate on tracing the traveller who went to Dubai from Bengaluru, and on what action could be taken against him.



A senior BBMP official, on condition of anonymity, admitted: "This is the first time such an incident has happened, and the variant is new. So we are assessing how to handle such cases. In the meantime, the Central government is also involved as he is a foreign national."

The investigating BBMP official told TNIE: "While the Covid-19 test analysis report of the 46- year old doctor, who also tested positive for Omicron, is still positive, it is not possible that the test reports of the South African traveller could have come negative within seven days. We need to check if the test reports are authentic or not."

The South African national had checked out of the hotel and left the city on November 27. He tested positive on November 20 for Covid-19 and on December 2, it was announced that he tested positive with the Omicron variant. An inquiry started after he left the city and an FIR was filed with High Grounds Police Station on December 5.

"We have booked a case against the hotel for not following due Covid-19 procedure of ensuing the person completes 14 days of quarantine, not taking permission from BBMP before permitting him to check out of the hotel, and not informing after he checked out," an official said.

Institutional quarantine may be must for foreign travellers

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

WITH rising cases of foreigners coming into the city, checking into hotels and two testing positive for Covid-19, BBMP and health officials are mulling bringing back the norm where every foreign traveller to the city is subject to institutional quarantine and testing.

Officials said this was in practice during the first and second waves, but is now limited to those from high-risk countries only. They are working on placing the proposal before the state and central governments to revise the advisory, as this will help control the spread of cases and reduce fear and anxiety among people.

"A woman traveller from Germany tested positive and has symptoms. We are checking on all international travellers who arrived to Bengaluru over the past month; the entry of new travellers needs to be closely monitored. She is the second case after the 66-year-old traveller from South Africa who tested positive, and stayed in a private hotel," a BBMP official, seeking anonymity, told TNIE.

CAP ON TEST PRICE

With RT-PCR tests made mandatory for all international passengers arriving at Kempegowda International Airport, the state govt announced price caps for both conventional as well as express tests. These are ICMR approved tests.

TEST RATES

RT-PCR (conventional): ₹500
Abott ID: ₹3,000
ThermoFisher Accula: ₹1,500
Tata MD3 Gene Fast/ Tata MDXF: ₹1,200
Cepheid Gene expert test: ₹2,750

> BBMP official

The official said the problem at hand is that advisories issued by the Central government need to be followed. Maharashtra had tried to change some of the guidelines and bring in more restrictions, but the Central government had objected and they had to be revoked.

"The government does not want to face any embarrassing situation, so it is being very cautious. But looking at the increase in Omicron cases in other states and travellers coming into the city, the government is now taking stern steps. We are thinking of proposing that international travellers who come to the city are subject to institutional quarantine, irrespective of the country they come from. They should undergo two rounds of RT-PCR tests and only after their test reports come negative, they can leave. Also, they must give an undertaking that they will not be incommunicado under any circumstances," the official added.

No Omicron cases among doc's contacts

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE preliminary report of samples of five contacts of the Omicron-positive 46-year-old doctor are negative for the new variant, but positive for the Delta variant. The doctor was one of the first Omicron cases in India.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta told TNIE that preliminary test reports of genome sequencing came negative for the new variant. "The official report from Delhi's ministry of health and family welfare is yet to be announced. The five are default positive for Delta. So citizens need not worry and there is no need to panic," he said. The samples were sent for genome sequencing on December 1.

Health department officials also stated that they were awaiting written communication from the NCBS laboratory and central government before making an official announcement and taking the necessary steps.

The first cases of Omicron were reported in Bengaluru, one was the doctor and the other a 66-year-old traveller from South Africa who left the city on November 27. The doctor had 13 primary and 205 secondary contacts.

German woman tests Covid +ve, shifted to hospital

BENGALURU: A 32-year-old German traveller who landed in Bengaluru on November 30, tested Covid-19 positive on Tuesday. Though she is not from the listed high-risk countries, BBMP officials shifted her to a private hospital for monitoring and treatment. She had checked into a five-star hotel in the city two days ago, from where she was shifted to hospital by BBMP. "Before checking into the hotel, she had stayed in an apartment in Hennur. She must have contracted the virus there," a BBMP health official said. Dr Savitha, health officer, East Zone, BBMP, told TNIE that she came to the city with a negative RT-PCR report. She also tested negative on arrival. When she developed symptoms, she gave her samples for testing. "The lab informed us of her test reports and we rushed to the hotel to shift her to hospital. She has 10 primary and 22 secondary contacts, all are hotel staff and they have been kept in isolation. Their samples will be collected on Wednesday," she said. She had taken her second Pfizer vaccine on July 13, 2021. Another BBMP health officer said that her samples were given for genome sequencing. ENS

NO CONFUSION, WINTER SESSION TO BE HELD IN BELAGAVI: BOMMAI

CM says all Covid-19 guidelines will be followed during the 10-day legislature session

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Belagavi

PUTTING an end to speculation on the venue for the winter session of the legislature, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday stressed that the 10-day session will be held in Belagavi, as planned, from December 13. "The session will be held in Suvarna Vidhana Soudha by strictly following all Covid-19 norms. The Assembly Speaker and Council Chairman had recently visited Belagavi and reviewed the preparations," Bommai said.

While the government has maintained that all precautions will be taken to conduct the session in Belagavi during the pandemic, a few elected representatives and even the secretariat staff association have expressed apprehensions at a time when Covid-19 clusters are mushrooming across the state and the first two Omicron variant cases in the country being detected in Karnataka.

Addressing the media in Belagavi, he said the session could not be held in Belagavi last year owing to the Covid-19 pandemic. "However, it will be held in Belagavi this time by strictly adhering to all guidelines," he added.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai in conversation with former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi during a BJP workers' meeting at Kinaye village in Belagavi district on Tuesday. Former Deputy CM Laxman Savadi looks on

Meanwhile, on the recent untimely rains and the consequent flooding and crop loss, Bommai said his government is disbursing compensation to farmers within 24 hours after conducting a survey using the 'Parihara' app. "Farmers have incurred huge losses due to the rain and floods. Earlier, it took at least three months to provide compensation. But now, it is done within 24 hours. Until now, Rs 422 crore compensation has been released directly to farmers' accounts. In Belagavi, grape growers and other horticulture farmers have also suffered and are being compensated," he added.

'No need to comment on JDS' decision'

Reacting to a possible BJP-Janata Dal (Secular) alliance ahead of the December 10 MLC polls, Bommai said, "The BJP never approached JDS for an alliance. Now, the JDS leadership has said they are not in favour of an alliance with us. There is no need for me to comment further. It is their party's decision. Our senior leader B S Yediyurappa had asked JDS to support BJP in seats where it was not contesting. It was his opinion. The BJP did not seek JDS' support."

'No confusion in party'

On Lakhan Jarkiholi, who is contesting the MLC elections as an Independent from Belagavi, using the BJP stage for his campaign, the chief minister said, "Our MLAs, MPs and office-bearers have taken a united decision and that is to elect our candidate Mahantesh Kavatagimath with the highest number of first preferential votes. There is no confusion in our party in Belagavi district. We are not bothered about the second preferential vote. All three candidates are strong. Our objective is to ensure our party wins and the Congress loses."

Voting rights of nominated ULB members questioned

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

WITH just two days to go for the biennial Legislative Council election for 25 seats from local bodies, questions are now being raised over the voting rights of nominated members in these councils.

There are about 290 urban local bodies in the state including town panchayats, town municipal councils, city municipal councils and municipal corporations. Many of them have a provision to have up to 3-5 nominated members in the council and they can participate in the House proceedings. Election Commission sources told TNIE that in some of the urban local bodies, there are up to five nominated members while some may have just three members and some may not have any nominated members. They all form part of the electoral college. However, questions are now being raised about the voting rights of the nominated members.

Congress MLC and former Bengaluru mayor P R Ramesh, while pointing out that the Town Municipal Councils of Anekal, Attibele and Bommasandra in Bengaluru have five nominated members each, insisted that they cannot be given voting rights in this Council election. He told TNIE that the nominated members are government nominees and giving them voting rights is not fair. The issue is being taken up before the courts on Wednesday, he added.

"They have been sent as advisers to assist the councils. How can they participate in voting? The rules are clear that such nominated members can only participate in deliberations of the municipal council, but they have no voting powers. Even in the House to which they are nominated, they cannot vote," he contended.

Meanwhile, formal campaigning for the Legislative Council election ended on Tuesday evening and the parties will make the last push before polling on December 10. There are about 90 candidates in the fray for 25 seats and the BJP and Congress are contesting 20 seats while the JDS is contesting a mere six seats.

No alliance with BJP, local units will decide on support, says HDK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

PUTTING to rest all rumours of the JDS and the BJP joining hands for the December 10 Council polls, JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy on Tuesday said the party will contest elections on its own and that local leaders will decide on extending support to candidates of other parties in constituencies where the JDS has not fielded candidates.

Senior BJP leader B S Yediyurappa had earlier sought JDS support, while CM Basavaraj Bommai had maintained that the party had not sought support. Former Prime Minister H D Deve Gowda's meeting with Prime Minister Narendra Modi had fuelled speculation about a possible understanding between the two parties. The JDS is contesting six out of 25 seats. The BJP and Congress have fielded candidates in 20 seats. Kumaraswamy said in the 19 seats where the party is not contesting, local leaders will take a decision keeping in mind the party's goal to win 123 seats in the 2023 Assembly polls.

The former CM said that while the Congress has accused the JDS of being the BJP's B-team, they had not received any request from the saffron party on having any sort of understanding for the Council elections.

"Yediyurappa had called me over phone and sought support in constituencies where we are not contesting. He had done that to help his party candidates," he said. Candidates from all three parties are contesting in Hassan, Mandya, Bengaluru Rural, Kolar, Mysuru and Tumakuru. "The BJP candidates are contesting against our candidates, where is the question of any understanding?" he pointed out.

In some constituencies, JDS leaders are supporting the Congress and in some other constituencies, they are supporting the BJP, depending on the local equations, he said.

Meanwhile, State Congress president DK Shivakumar said Yediyurappa seeking the JDS support showed the party's weakness.

Inviting investors to Gujarat, Vaghani said the state is policy-driven and has launched many policies and schemes, including the Industrial Policy-2020, Integrated Logistics and Logistics Park Policy, Electric Vehicle Policy, Solar Energy Policy, and Tourism and Textiles Policy, 2021 to incentivise investors for future growth.

Vaghani said Gujarat is keen to scale up investments in the next-generation infrastructure, energy and digital networks, emerging technologies, financial technologies, startups, electric vehicles, research and development and tourism.

Will not give up Badami seat for Siddu in 2023, says Chimmanakatti

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bagalkot

AFTER Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah reiterated that he will contest the 2023 Assembly elections from Badami, former minister B B Chimmanakatti has strongly opposed the former's candidature from the constituency.

Chimmanakatti is a five-time legislator from Badami constituency and, in the 2018 Assembly polls, he was forced to sacrifice his seat to Siddaramaiah.

Siddaramaiah won by a narrow margin against the BJP's B Sriramulu from Badami, but lost from Chamundeshwari in Mysuru district against JDS candidate G T Devegowda.

Chimmanakatti said, "If Siddaramaiah had contested from Varuna, he would have had an easy win. But he sacrificed his seat for his son and fought from Badami and Chamundeshwari. If he is not competent to win from Chamundeshwari, then why should he contest?"

"After I sacrificed my seat for Siddaramaiah, my future in politics is hanging in the balance. Siddaramaiah should consider my words seriously and should contest from Varuna in 2023. He shouldn't contest from Badami. I will contest from Badami and get elected as MLA.. If Congress comes to power, then I will also become a minister," Chimmanakatti said while addressing the elected members of Badami local body.

This came as a surprise to many people that were present on the stage. "Chimmanakatti expressed his anguish against Siddaramaiah as he is reportedly being sidelined by the Badami MLA and his supporters in party activities. He was also promised of being made an MLC or a party post. But that wasn't done," said a party leader on condition of anonymity.

Congress MLC R B Thimmapur said, "Chimmanakattii has expressed his opinion. The party will discuss this. There is no dissent in the party and it won't affect the December 10 MLC polls."

When questioned whether the party will take any action against Chimmanakatti, District Congress Committee president S G Nanjayanmutt said, "If the state party high command demands a report, I will submit it. It is left to the party high command to initiate any action. We condemn such behaviour. It was not the right platform to raise this issue. He could have spoken about this in party meetings or directly with the party high command."

Meanwhile, Siddaramaiah refused to respond to Chimmanakatti's statements.

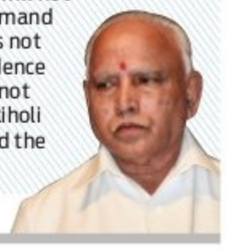
Didn't seek Cabinet berth for Vijayendra: BSY

DAVANAGERE : Former Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa on Tuesday said that he has not asked the BJP high command or anybody else to make his son B Y Vijayendra a minister in the state cabinet. Addressing the media here, the 78-year-old Lingayat strongman said that he will not intervene in the issue of cabinet expansion and it is left to the party high command and national leaders. "The demand for a ministerial berth for Vijayendra does not arise," he added. On the December 10 MLC polls, Yediyurappa expressed confidence of the BJP winning at least 15 of the 20 seats it is contesting. "The BJP does not want to depend on other parties in the Upper House," he said. On Lakhan Jarkiholi contesting as an Independent in dual-member Belagavi seat, Yediyurappa said the party's focus is to get its candidate Mahantesh Kavatagimath elected. ENS



Create bio-bubbles on residential campuses, suggests school body

G SUBHASH CHANDRA
@ Chitradurga

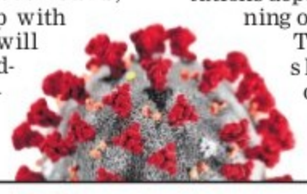
AMIDST outbreak of Covid-19 clusters on residential school campuses in the state, the Registered Unaided Private Schools Management Association, Karnataka, (RUPSA) has proposed creating bio-bubbles, like during the Indian Premier League (IPL), to ensure safety of students.

The Association feels that such bio-bubbles will help prevent the virus spread on residential school campuses and also ensure that students can continue studies in a stress-free manner.

It suggested that visits by parents and others should be curtailed till such time pandemic subsides or till the time vaccination for children takes off.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Association president Lokesh Talikatte said, "We have come up with this idea and we will share it with the Education Department and our member institutions and try to implement it shortly." In case of students testing positive on residential school campuses, they can be isolated on the same campus and given treatment. Along with this, micro containment zones can be started to ensure that students' studies are not affected. Classes can be restarted after 7-8 days by sanitising the entire campus, he suggested.

To a question on the quality of education suffering, he said that it will be a disaster if schools are closed down again. Hence, the government should do a lot of thinking before taking any such decision, he felt. Many private unaided educational institutions, which are providing quality education to the middle-class and some sections of the poor, are also suffering due to the pandemic and the survival of these institutions depends on the running of classes.



The government should also consider this factor, he added.

Govt plans to up number of genome sequencing labs

HUBBALLI : The state government is planning to increase the number of laboratories to conduct genome sequencing as samples from different parts of the state are now sent to Bengaluru to determine whether a Covid-positive patient is a carrier of Omicron. With a spurt in Covid cases over the last two weeks, the labs in Bengaluru are being burdened with a large number of samples. This has resulted in test results taking over a week. As the results are arriving late, there has been a delay in treatment and other protocols that need to be followed, said a health expert. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said here on Tuesday that the government is planning to set up more laboratories with testing facilities for genome sequencing. "Now, after the test in Bengaluru, some samples are sent to the National Centre For Biological Sciences for higher testing," he added. "To set up laboratories with the testing facility for genome sequencing, we need experts to handle the testing and also we need machines. I have spoken to the health secretary and efforts are on to set up labs," he said. ENS

Govt didn't pay aid to kin of Covid victims: Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @
Mysuru

CONGRESS leader Siddaramaiah on Tuesday has hit out at the Union Government over the Rs 20 lakh crore economic package, saying that the kin of Covid-19 victims are yet to receive any compensation.

Addressing the media here, Siddaramaiah claimed, "Close to 50 lakh people died in the country and five lakh people succumbed to Covid-19 in Karnataka. But no one knows whether their kin were paid compensation or not. The government was not prepared for the second wave and lakhs of people died gasping for oxygen. It is unfortunate that the government did not bother to pay relief to families that lost their breadwinners and dear ones."

Siddaramaiah said that heavy rain resulted in crop loss in more than six lakh hectares and thousands of houses were damaged, but no survey was conducted or compensation paid. Claiming that he had built 15 lakh houses in the previous Congress government, he charged that the BJP government has not constructed a single house and has not released grants for houses sanctioned during the Congress regime.

He also came down heavily on the present government for winding up welfare programmes like Vidyashri, Indira Canteen, Shaadi Bhagya and other schemes. Alleging that the BJP and the JDS have not contributed to strengthening the panchayat raj system, he said it was the Congress which gave political reservation to all communities and allotted crores under NREGA programmes to panchayats.

Terming the BJP government in the state as the most corrupt, he said they took 40 per cent commission to allot tenders and used just 20 per cent of the funds for development. He accused Prime Minister Narendra Modi of failing to contain price rise. Claiming that the Congress will come back to power in 2023, he claimed that many are joining the party.

THE new government withdrew some of the decisions taken by the previous disposition, including the process to appoint PWD engineers. When the results were not announced after a year, some aspirants went to court and the government scrapped the entire process and called for new applications.

In the latest order in August, the government invited applications to fill 660 assistant engineer and 330 junior engineer posts. More than 58,000 aspirants have applied.

Suresh (name changed), who works on contract in Tumakuru and has been assigned the exam centre in Kalaburagi, said, "I have to apply for at least four days of leave as I need two days to travel and two days to attend the exams. My office has told me to get a Covid test done after I return."

PWD Minister CC Patil said the exam process does not come under him as it is conducted by KPSC. A KPSC official said, "Locals help candidates and that is why we have adopted this system."

The incident occurred on 80-feet Road in Indiranagar on Tuesday afternoon.

The deceased Hari Mahanth from Assam, a resident of Doopasandra, was driving an Maruti Alto car out of the parking lot for its owner who was waiting in the restaurant when Suvith's Mercedes Benz crashed into him.

While Mahanth died on the spot, Suvith, a resident of Defence Colony in Indiranagar, is said to be in a serious condition.

A woman passenger in the autorickshaw, its driver and the driver of the goods vehicle also sustained injuries. The accident caused a traffic gridlock for some time.

Suvith has been admitted to Manipal Hospital on Old Airport Road. The police are yet to receive reports whether he was under the influence of alcohol. Mahindra, an eye-witness, said, "I was riding my bike when the car rammed several vehicles. I went to help and found the driver dead and people screaming."

Farmers lay siege to a procurement centre and attack officials over delay in procurement of paddy at Obulapur in Mallapur mandal, Jagtial district, on Tuesday | EXPRESS

Paddy row: TRS MPs to boycott winter session

Members troop out after neither House takes up discussion on procurement

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

THE Telangana Rashtra Samiti (TRS) MPs on Tuesday took a decision to boycott the rest of the winter session of Parliament in protest against central government's indifferent attitude on paddy procurement issue, even as the BJP made it clear that there was no ambiguity in its stand and that the TRS had declared against procuring rabi paddy only to do away with Re1 a kg rice scheme.

As both the BJP and the TRS were trading charges, Congress MP A Revanth Reddy threw his oar in, contending that the TRS took the decision only to be in the good books of the BJP and thus prevent institution of an inquiry by ED into Municipal Administration minister K T Rama Rao's Rs.3,000 crore land allotment scam.

Though Union Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar said in the Lok Sabha that there was no restriction on sowing of crops in Telangana for the Rabi season in 2021, the TRS MPs took the boycott decision and vowed to take the issue to the people's court.

The TRS MPs trooped out of the both the houses after neither house took up the short discussion on paddy procurement in spite of their insisting on it. Later they told reporters that they would boycott the remainder of the session. The TRS has nine members in Lok Sabha and six in Rajya Sabha. "No party wants to boycott the Parliament session. Though it is painful to do so, we have no other option," said TRS Parliamentary Party leader K Keshava Rao. "We are boycotting the session for the sake of the farmers," TRS floor leader in Lok Sabha Nama Nageswara Rao said.

Earlier, to a question raised by Congress member N Uttam Kumar Reddy in Lok Sabha, the Union Agriculture Minister said the Department of Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare (DA&FW) had not issued any restriction on sowing of crops in the State for Rabi 2021.

TRS floor leader Nama Nageswara Rao alleged that while the Agriculture Minister had said there were no restrictions on growing Rabi paddy, the Union Commerce Minister (Piyush Goyal), while replying to another question, had stated that they would not buy parboiled rice. The two Ministers gave different replies, Nageswara Rao alleged.

Angry with the TRS MPS accusing the centre of making conflicting statements, Union Minister G Kishan Reddy said that the State government was trying to discontinue Rs 1 per kg rice scheme by declaring not to procure rabi paddy from farmers.

Sleepless nights for Kerala villagers as TN opens dam without warning

NEJMA SULAIMAN@Idukki

NOVEMBER and December, which are usually cool months for Idukki, are however unpleasant this year especially for the villagers living downstream Mullaperiyar dam. They have been spending sleepless nights fearing the floodwater from Periyar would submerge their houses any moment after Tamil Nadu increased the discharge through the Mullaperiyar spillways.

On Monday night hundreds of houses in Vallakkadavu, Vikas Nagar, Churakkulam Attoram, Karuppupalam, Manjumala Attoram and Inchikkadu Attoram were inundated after Tamil Nadu increased the discharge through spillways to 12,654 cusecs at 9 pm.

But, if rain gathers strength in the downstream areas, the possibility of heavy flooding in the downstream areas is high. As per unofficial estimates, at least 17 houses have been submerged in floodwater in the Churakkulam Attoram village while the floodwater entered nearly 150 houses in Vallakkadavu village.

Roy Francis, a villager in his late 50s, looked helpless as he and his family packed household items on Monday night. Roy and other residents settled in Ward-7 in Vikas Nagar of Vandiperiyar made desperate efforts to save their household essentials after the gushing water from Periyar entered their houses on one-foot height by 7 pm itself on Monday when only five shutters were opened to a height of 60 cm to release 3,947 cusecs of water. The water discharge was increased at 9 pm by opening four more shutters. "At least 11 houses in Vikas Nagar area have been submerged in floodwater on Monday night. The water in the Periyar river started rising by 6 pm and by 9 pm and we had to climb on upper storey for safety. Till early this morning (Tuesday), when the water started receding, we had to stay awake to keep guard of houses," Roy told TNIE, adding he had been doing this for the past two weeks.

Water resources minister Roshy Augustine termed it an inhuman act by Tamil Nadu which did not consider the safety of people living downstream.

Shutters of Idukki dam raised

With incessant rain filling up the Idukki reservoir near to its capacity, the authorities, started releasing water into the Periyar river on Tuesday by raising the shutter further to 60cm at 8.30 am. They alerted the residents in the low-lying areas near the river. The district administration said the water level is increasing rapidly in the Idukki and the Mullaperiyar dams, located upstream. "If heavy rain persists, then more water will be released. People living on the banks of Periyar are needed to stay alert," it said.

TS HC clears way for probe into corporate frauds

T G NAIDU @ Hyderabad

THE Telangana High Court on Tuesday vacated the interim stay orders in a batch petitions, clearing the path for the Central Bureau of Investigation and Enforcement Directorate to investigate cheating of banks of thousands of crores of rupees by several corporate companies.

A bench comprising Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice N Tukaramji, issued the order on petitions challenging the action of the consortium of bankers in declaring accounts of the petitioner companies as liquidation accounts under 'Fraud Classification' of RBI's Frauds Classification and Reporting by Commercial Banks and Select Financial Institutions.

The bench further directed that the transactions of the said companies should also be investigated by CBI and ED, along with bankers. After the RBI released the circular on July 1, 2016, the bankers declared their accounts as fraudulent in accordance with the provisions.

Research opens doors to lock HIV into deep latency: Prof

OXIDATIVE stress — an imbalance of free radicals and antioxidants in the body — can lead to cell and tissue damage, and occurs naturally due to ageing. These effects can contribute to inflammation and organ damage.

But stopping cART is also not an option because the virus can reactivate in the absence of therapy.

The IISc researchers set up experiments from the scratch. "Studying the effects of a gaseous molecule on HIV required us to build and validate new model systems," Virender Kumar Pal, a PhD student in IISc's Department of Microbiology and Cell Biology (MCB) and the first author of this study, said. "We started with experiments on established cell lines before moving on to cells donated by HIV patients in 2019."

The researchers studied the effects of natural generation of H2S in HIV-infected cells as well as supplementing this with a chemical donor. "We observed a direct effect of H2S on suppressing HIV reactivation and replication along with all its other beneficial effects, such as maintenance of mitochondrial health and dissipation of oxidative stress in our [cellular] models," said Amit Singh, Associate Professor in MCB/CIDR and corresponding author of this study. "Our results suggest that maintenance of HIV latency and reactivation are closely linked to the H2S levels in infected cells."

He said the research opens doors to supplementing cART with chemical donors of H2S "to lock HIV in a state of deep latency, potentially improving the lives of millions infected with the virus. Since H2S donors are already undergoing clinical trials for other diseases, they can quickly be repurposed for HIV treatment." The team included researchers from the Department of Microbiology and Cell Biology and the Centre for Infectious Disease Research at IISc, along with collaborators from the Bangalore Medical College and Research Institute. The results are published in the journal eLife.

Two held for assaulting policemen

BENGALURU: Yelahanka New Town police have arrested two men including an engineer for assaulting a police sub inspector and a constable.

The accused are residents of Yelahanka and assaulted Srishaila, the police sub inspector and Aslam, the police constable during patrolling. The police came on a bike and brushed the accused's car coming from the opposite side in the narrow lane. The road, under construction was blocked for traffic on one side and vehicles from both directions were allowed on the single narrow lane where the incident took place.

The accused got out of the car and abused the policemen when they requested them to move the vehicle as it was affecting the traffic flow. In a fit of rage, they slapped and assaulted the policemen who were on duty. The two policemen immediately alerted the control room for backup.

They were taken into custody and produced before the magistrate. ENS

Register new non-transport vehicles as per earlier rules, HC tells state

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday directed the State government to register new non-transport vehicles and fully built transport vehicles as per the rules which existed prior to the new rule notified on October 31, 2021, enabling dealers to register new vehicles.

A division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum passed the interim order after hearing the plea filed by a company having a contract with the transport department to issue Registration Certificate (RC) smart cards, and questioned the new rule saying it affects its contract valid till 2024.

"Prima facie, the contention raised by the counsel for the petitioner appears to be correct, and as such, requires consideration. Let the statement of objections be filed by the state government within three weeks. In the meantime, the registration of non-transport vehicles and fully built transport vehicles on first sale should be registered as per the existing system prior to issuance of the impugned notification dated October 31, 2021," the court said, adjourning the hearing to January 31, 2022.

During the hearing, counsel for the petitioner submitted that the state government's decision dated October 31 wants to do away with smart card based registration certificate in lieu of electronic registration or online mode, and the same is arbitrary and illegal. He submitted that draft rules were notified in 2021, giving only five days' time for any objections or suggestions. Exactly after five days, on October 31, 2021 the impugned notification was issued, authorising dealers of vehicle manufacturers as the registering authorities.

Rain dampens prospects of TN drumstick farmers

ARAVIND RAJ @ Karur

HUNDREDS of drumstick farmers in Karur are staring at a huge loss as the recent rains that lashed the district have led to the shedding of flowers that develop into the vegetable.

The demand for tasty Aravakurichi drumsticks from various southern States of Telangana, Kerala and Andhra Pradesh, continues to be high, but a combination of rains and winter dew have dampened their prospects.

"After banana and betel leaves, drumstick is one of the largest cultivated crops in Karur district. Farmers in over 25 villages in the Aravakurichi region have been cultivating drumsticks over 30,000 acres and the heavy rains over the past few days have caused the flowers on the trees to fall off. Due to this, we won't be able to get any drumsticks for the next season," says Natarajan, a farmer from Aravakurichi.

Another farmer, Chinnasamy of Esanatham said, "It's a double whammy for us as the heavy rains not only made the flowers fall off but also damaged the drumsticks that were to be harvested in the next few days. The government must provide us with relief to compensate for the loss."

Karur block Horticulture Department Assistant Director (AD) Rajavel said, "Around ₹45 lakh fund was allotted for 100 hectares of farmlands in Krishna-rayapuram and Kulithalai under the IFS (integrated farming system). But due to the monsoon, those funds were shifted to the Paramathi and Aravakurichi blocks. A farmer can get a subsidy of ₹45,000 for one hectare of farmland under the IFS scheme. Drumstick farmers can also make use of this subsidy."

Drumsticks are being sold for more than Rs 200 per kg in Chennai on Tuesday

MARKETS WELCOME AN END TO INDIGO PROMOTERS' DISPUTE

It is indeed good news that the two founders of India's largest and most profitable airline are all set to bury the hatchet. This is possibly in preparation to meet competition from the Tata Group once it takes over Air India next month. A statement by InterGlobe Aviation, Indigo's parent, said it had received a joint requisition from the two founders—Rahul Bhatia and Rakesh Gangwal—calling an EGM on December 30 to consider discarding restrictive clauses that gave the two promoters the first right of refusal in case one of them wanted to sell their shares to a third party. Since the two promoters collectively own nearly 75% of the stock, the resolution will go through.

The 4% rally in InterGlobe after the EGM notice showed markets don't like promoter disputes disrupting good businesses. The dispute first broke out in July 2019, when Gangwal wrote to the market regulator, SEBI, alleging governance issues like the execution of related-party transactions (RPTs) without calling for competitive bids. Gangwal also said he was being choked since all the powers to appoint the CEO and MD as well as the majority of the directors were concentrated in the hands of Bhatia, his co-promoter.

In a sign of maturing corporate practices, the two promoters did not let the feud turn ugly and preferred the route of arbitration. The amendment in the articles of association being proposed in the EGM is pursuant to the directions of a London Court of International Arbitration. With restrictions on stake sale out of the way, the promoters can now disentangle and one of them can exit at the market price that the company's shares command. The airlines business is among the toughest in the world, as is apparent from the number of skeletons the industry has produced. Things turned quiet at Indigo, but the simmering dispute has taken a toll. Though Covid is partly to blame, the airline reported its seventh straight quarterly loss this October when it notched up a net loss of ₹1,436 crore. With promoter issues taken care of, it is expected the airline will now fly better.

HOCKEY JUNIORS NEED MORE MATCHES

As some of the best hockey-playing youngsters in the world showcased their tricks and flicks at the junior World Cup in Bhubaneswar over the last 10 days, one thing stood out. India's junior boys just don't play enough competitive hockey. Sure, most of them may satisfy Malcolm Gladwell's '10,000 hours of practice' theory but all of them have a fair way to go before they can turn into experts. The main reason for that seems to be their lack of proper match practice. Much has been written about how the pandemic has scuttled opportunities for match play but India's domestic hockey structure is unique in that the juniors don't play anyway. The elite juniors are locked in training camps for more than 250 days a year. Apart from exposure trips to Europe and places like Malaysia, they don't play much. That's very different compared to European nations. Their youngsters play in leagues, both domestic and foreign; they share dressing rooms with some of the world's best senior pros. When that happens, there is a quicker upward curve in terms of development. Exposed to tricky match conditions on a weekly basis, they know the nuances of the game. Real match situations demand a different mindset to tackle adversities. Going shoulder to shoulder with the world's best, they are already finishing school at a very young age.

This was on display in each of the three knockout games India played. The Belgians, Germans and French, most of them playing in competitive leagues in Europe, knew what to do. Even at the age-group level, that's a massive advantage to have. While India's performance against Belgium showed the players have the talent to break through, the losses against Germany and France (twice) revealed what can happen when they don't play enough. Perhaps it is time to bring back the Hockey India League (word on the street is there could be a five-a-side version soon) or maybe send some of these juniors to play in European leagues. One of the reasons the 2016 side won the junior World Cup was because of the experience the players had acquired in HIL. Devoid of those minutes, this team looked a bit lost at the business end of the tournament. This is a good bunch but if they are to progress further, Hockey India should restart the league or change the structure.

Once a young firebrand who courageously challenged the draconian rule of the Communists, sadly today Mamata has failed to write any new chapter in Bengal's governance history

DIDI'S DREAMS WILL STAY THAT WAY. PERIOD

VINAY SAHASRABUDDHE

President, ICCR, and BJP Rajya Sabha MP

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Suddenly, the nation is witnessing a surge in the political tours of Ms Mamata Banerjee. Her desire to emerge as the new head of the so-called opposition unity is not hidden anymore. Having tested blood in West Bengal, the Sundarban tigress is now trying to push the Congress to the periphery. Her national ambitions are so intense that she made a sitting MP resign to accommodate a new entrant from another party. She offered a Rajya Sabha seat on a platter to Congress veteran Luizinho Falerio, clearly indicating that deserters will be decorated. Maharashtra seems to be next on her menu card.

Prior to her visit to Mumbai, in Delhi she took a swipe at Ms Sonia Gandhi, asking whether it is a constitutional mandate to call on her during every trip. Writing an obituary for the era of alliances with the Congress at the Centre, she asked, "Where is the UPA?" Without sparing the prince of the 'family', she commented, "If some leaders keep visiting abroad every now and then, what can we do?" Now, the Congress has taken issue and criticised Mamata for her remarks. For obvious reasons, NCP Chief Sharad Pawar dismissed the idea of an opposition alliance minus the Congress.

All this is entertaining and educational at the same time. Entertaining because of the multiple contradictions inherent in Mamata's recent political moves. Although none has said it in so many words, she is aiming to lead the nation with her eyes set on the position of prime minister. By suggesting that a pan-India alliance of non-NDA parties without the Congress is possible, Mamata is eyeing all those regional outfits that refuse to play ball with the Congress.

However, at least for three clear reasons, Mamata is more likely to fail than succeed in her bid. Her style of leadership is marked by her temperamental nature and evokes no confidence. Besides, her abysmal track record in governance and absence of any national vision are the other two serious issues that underscore her inherent limitations.

To start with, let's understand that Mamata is not known for building a well-knit party organisation. It is common knowledge that the lumpen elements in West Bengal, having deserted the CPM, joined the TMC and in election after election, played a key role in Mamata's success. The victories of her party are more about the reign of terror unleashed by the TMC in rural West Bengal complemented by strong arm-twisting in urban areas. The famous Bhadralok of Bengal have happily continued to turn a Nelson's eye to all this.

True that starting from Uttar Pradesh, regions like Bihar, Jharkhand, Odisha, Telangana, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, Maharashtra, Meghalaya, Manipur, Tripura and perhaps even Punjab and Jammu & Kashmir do provide a significant political space for non-Congress, non-BJP parties. However, that does not automatically mean that Mamata could wean over these parties. This is because regardless of her three back-to-back victories in Bengal, she fails to provide any reassuring and dependable leadership that can take allies along. She is known for being temperamental, unpredictable and consequently inconsistent in her approach.

> Mamata is not known for building a well-knit party organisation. It is common knowledge that the lumpen elements in West Bengal, having deserted the CPM, joined the TMC ... She couldn't rise above partisan lines and prevent attacks on families of BJP supporters after the last Assembly elections

Once a young, firebrand leader who courageously challenged the draconian rule of the Communists, sadly today Mamata has failed to write any new chapter in the governance history of West Bengal. In 2005 as Lok Sabha member, Mamata had fought with the then Speaker to allow her to raise the issue of illegal infiltration from Bangladesh. However, 15 years later, she refuses to recognise this challenge since she has to protect her vote bank. Notwithstanding the eloquent silence of sections of mainstream media, it is a fact that Mamata couldn't rise above partisan considerations. She couldn't prevent bloodshed and atrocities on women members of families of BJP supporters after the last Assembly elections. Ironically, those who pooh-pooh others as Godi media cannot answer why many sections of mainstream media do not dare to hold a mirror to Ms Banerjee.

Last but not least is her lack of any pan-India vision. Nobody knows about her opinion on major national issues. Talking from the rooftops about federalism today, her tenure as Railway minister was marked by favours to her own state. Besides, once a challenger to the establishment, today she herself is the establishment in multiple ways.

In the late 1990s, she hoisted a flag of revolt claiming that she represents the grassroots and hence named her party as Trinamool Congress. But today, encircled by admirers and fixers, her own party's grassroots are realising that they are simply a part of an election-fighting machine.

This was bound to happen as her party is fast becoming another Congress and in that sense, a true 'alternative to the Congress'. Those who have deserted the Congress to embrace the TMC know it very well that they have just to change the portraits on the wall. In place of Sonia and Rahul, now it is Mamata and Abhishek. It's not switching parties, it's just switching dynasties. All this would leave Mamata's dreams qualitatively not different in any way from those of Mungerilal, for sure.

ECONOMISTS SHINE, BUT NOT OUR POLICIES

KARAN BHASIN

New York-based economist

The last few days have been peculiarly interesting on the global economic front, beginning from the concerns over a new coronavirus variant, stellar GDP figures back home in India and the usual punditry on economics by commentators.

One must concede that economic punditry is much easier than spending countless hours thinking about economic problems and working towards finding solutions in the form of a series of mathematical equations. Nevertheless, many Indians seem to be inclined to know more about the economy and many are viewing it as a career option too. No surprises, given that we have had such successful global economists from India, one of whom is now the first deputy managing director of the International Monetary Fund (this is the second-most senior position within the IMF bureaucracy).

The success of Indian economists globally is appreciated by all. Equally important is the work done by some of the world's best policy economists in India, who work consistently to help implement better policies in areas ranging from education, health, law and any other issue of development (even macroeconomic management). It is only natural, then, to ask why it is the case that there are frequent missteps by governments in India—both in the past and some even in the present. Take the example of the continued focus on Nehruvian socialism long after we realised that it had failed. Or take the recent example of the Punjab government, which did a U-turn on the existing power purchase agreements. There is a near consensus that the decision was bad and reminiscent of the UPA's retrospective tax amendment. Yet, the law stands and there has been limited effort to push against it, though it will have implications for the growth of Punjab, thereby condemning another generation into low productive agricultural jobs.

The reason why the proposed law is bad policy is straightforward. Think of yourself as someone who wishes to invest in a particular state. The investor will do so only when they are sure of some level of returns on their investment. This return is assured by way of ensuring property rights. That is, if you invest in a shop, you are assured that the shop belongs to you and you may generate a stream of revenue from it. Now suppose there is a dispute regarding the shop, then there must be a mechanism for resolving it and ensuring that you get the return as per the original contract. This is known as contract enforcement and is one of the areas where India has consistently performed poorly over the last several decades.

> Indian economists have been successful globally. It is only natural, then, to ask why it is the case that there are frequent missteps by governments in India—both in the past and some even in the present. ... Take the recent example of the Punjab government, which did a U-turn on the existing power purchase agreements. There is a near consensus that the decision was bad and reminiscent of the UPA's retrospective tax amendment

Essentially, by renegotiating the existing power contract, the Punjab government has empowered the executive to violate any existing agreement within the purview of the state. Thus, in the example highlighted above, if you own a shop, the state can take it away from you at any time as per any cost determined by it. Would you still be willing to invest in the shop in such a state?

Your answer to the aforementioned question is what is wrong with this particular law. The sad reality is that many of Punjab's problems are an outcome of a lack of adequate non-farm jobs. However, the response to this problem has been on the lines of proposing a law to reserve jobs within the state—a move that again restricts labour mobility, thereby disincentivising investors (Haryana is another example of such a law). An outcome of such policies is that the situation will continue to deteriorate, which will impact the state's resources and its ability to invest for further productivity enhancement.

There is a need to recognise that the existing policies have resulted in low diversification of the economy, which has had implications for the environment and resource base of the state. A course correction on the policy front is therefore warranted so as to ensure that there is an improvement in the lives of the people of Punjab.

Punjab's policy missteps are also a lesson for various other states that have been relatively more developed. A lead in socioeconomic indicators cannot be treated as destiny and consistent good policy is necessary to continuously improve lives. One hopes that other states recognise this and avoid such policy errors going forward.

No good deed unpunished

Over the centuries, no great person who has spent their whole life for the cause of their people has escaped imprisonment (Aung San Suu Kyi sentenced to two years in prison, Dec 7). It is an appropriate time for India to come to the fore and help Myanmar.

Loss to psychiatry

This is with reference to Sarada Menon, India's first woman psychiatrist, is no more (Dec 7). The demise of the Padma Bhushan awardee, who was the longest-serving superintendent of the Institute of Mental Health, Kilpauk, due to age-related ailments on Sunday is an irreparable loss to the medical world and especially the field of psychiatry. A well-trained psychiatrist from NIMHANS, she was also a good administrator. If we really want to honour and recognise her service, humanity and empathy, we should ensure that more attention is paid to rehabilitation of persons with mental disorders.

Sets wrong precedent

This is with reference to Govt can't appoint MLA's son in service, it cripples equality: HC (Dec 7). Employing wards of MLAs in government service while ignoring eligible candidates awaiting employment after completing all tests and formalities is not only injustice but would create a wrong precedent.

K G Ratnakara Menon, Palakkad

Where jobs are few

The court directing the termination of the services of the late MLA's son is justified as a similar demand can come from the dependants of other people's representatives. This will reduce the chances of employment for the common man in a state where job opportunities are already limited.

Regulation for repair

This is with reference to Return of the repair economy need of the hour (Dec 7). The author very rightly highlights the impending disaster due to the use-and-throw culture across several product lines causing huge e-waste. This needs tight regulation from the government so that standards organisations such as ISI upgrade their compliance policies to have every product mandatorily include repairability and disposal mechanisms. Products that don't conform to this should not be allowed to be sold. Such aggressive and tight regulation is surely the need of the hour to save the future of mother earth.

Assisting aged people

The article Planning for demographic shift towards elderly (Dec 6) rightly draws attention to the rising proportion of the aged population and underscores the need for the elderly to be integrated into the social networks of family and friends for a happy life. Their interaction with friends and relatives could be facilitated by so many measures including provision of free communication and transport facilities. Volunteers could come forward to assist aged people in taking part in social activities.

N Rama Rao, Chennai

Learn from elderly wisdom

The Indian family system is better than others since we believe in a joint family whereas Western culture prefers a nuclear family. Having lived their lives for their children's future, what our elders need is acknowledgement and recognition. This should be bestowed on them and we should acknowledge our indebtedness by showing our love and affection. There is a saying: "When an old person dies, a library is lost." Youngsters should seek the experience and wisdom of the elders. In many instances, families regret not having accorded the respect the elders deserved while they were alive. Parents should inculcate in their children the importance of respecting their grandparents.

Give and take needed

The author highlighted the different aspects of the needs of the elderly at home and in society and gave suggestions for their well-being. Life after 60 is tough and each person has a harrowing tale to tell. But it is also fashionable to only depict the sons and daughters as villains and ignore the rigid nature of the elderly. Both the young and old need to have a give-and-take attitude with the shift in living conditions and the rise of nuclear families. Planning for an independent old age is vital and one should strive towards good health, finances and social relationships. However, it is easier said than done since no man or woman is an island.

BHIMA KOREGAON CASE

SC quashes NIA plea against bail to Sudha

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday dismissed the National Investigation Agency's plea challenging a Bombay High Court order granting default bail to activist Sudha Bharadwaj in the 2018 Bhima Koregaon case.

A bench headed by Justice U U Lalit said, "We see no reason to interfere with the high court's order."

Bharadwaj was arrested on August 28, 2018. She was granted statutory (default) bail under Section 167 (2) of the Criminal Procedure Code on December 1 on the ground that the Additional Sessions Court, Pune, which extended the time for investigation in the case beyond 90 days, was not competent to do so as the court was not a Special Court under Section 22 of the NIA Act. "The moot question is whether the court was competent. If the competence was lacking, there was no valid extension of period and the lady was entitled to statutory bail," the bench told Additional Solicitor General Aman Lekhi, dismissing the petition.

The Bombay High Court had on December 1 allowed default bail to Bharadwaj in the Bhima Koregaon case on the grounds that the extension of time for investigation and detention under the Unlawful Activities Prevention Act (UAPA) and the Code of Criminal Procedure had not been given by a court of competent jurisdiction.

The high court had refused to grant default bail to eight others as they had not applied for default bail when that right had accrued to them on the failure of NIA to file a charge sheet within the statutory period of 90 days. The Bhima Koregaon case relates to a December 31, 2017 Elgar Parishad event organised by a group of persons, including activists and retired judges.

Union Culture and Tourism Minister G Kishan Reddy on Tuesday told this daily that instructions to complete remaining work have been issued and he would visit the site to oversee the progress next week. "Instructions have already been given to speed up work. I visited the site to review the progress a few days ago. Collections to be displayed at the museum are also being sourced. The project should be completed by the end of this month." ENS

'Farming has become profitable profession'

FROM the Gauthan scheme to allegations of soft Hindutva, Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel spoke on a wide range of issues with The New Indian Express group editorial director Prabhu Chawla during the Kisan Summit and awards function held in Raipur

You understood the vote-catching capacity of cows that the BJP failed to understand. Cows can also fetch votes...
Earlier, farmers used to sustain a strong economic system with the cattle they had, carry out business in fairs, which no longer exists. Agriculture equipment almost ended the utility of cattle. Livestock owners and villagers are compelled to let cattle out in the open. After extensive thoughts and deliberations, we decided to have Gauthan (cattle shed) and purchase cow dung. It persuaded cattle owners to keep cows with them or at Gauthan. This prevented cattle from damaging crop and moving out on roads.

But you astutely linked it to economics via politics...
The Gauthan scheme has proved to be advantageous after we linked it to the economics. It is the revival of rural economy and there is no underlying politics in it. It is their (BJP) working style which is linked to 'divide and rule' and emotionally exploit the masses. The party has sought votes either on the name of Lord Ram or cows.

Your personality is linked to farm, village and forests. Tell us more about it.
I have been associated with agriculture and engaged in it since my school days. It was already there in our family. I lived the life of a villager, eagerly involved in every local and religious festivals. My sentiments are deeply rooted to rural life. We used to wake up during the wee hours during the cultivation season.

Did you ever plough the field?
Yes. At younger age, I was well accustomed with the agriculture exercises and essential requisites that farmers know about their crops. I can even milk cows, take buffaloes to village ponds and even knew to use injection on the cattle.

Today, the younger generation is not willing to take up the farming as a profession.
I don't agree. This belief was earlier prevailing but during the last three years, the substantial increase in the net sown area under cultivation and the growing strength of farmers suggests 'farming is equally seen as the profitable profession'. For instance, in 2018, there were 15 lakh farmers who registered for paddy procurement and today the figure has reached over 22 lakh.

You actively promote local Chhattisgarh sports
The old traditions need to be improved. Various local products with value addition are being sent outside the state. All these are reviving the traditions and increasing the scope of trading activities in rural areas. We are trying to preserve our own culture including traditional food, sports, thoughts, lifestyle and live with them.

Isn't your Ram van gaman path suggesting a competition (with BJP) on the name of Ram?
We are not in any competition. In Chhattisgarh, Ram is deeply embedded in our age-old culture. The birthplace of Kaushalya, the mother of Lord Ram, is at Chandkhuri, not far from Raipur. Ram-Ram tradition exists in our custom.

But aren't you pursuing a soft Hindutva approach?
Hindutva was coined by Savarkar and that concept was based on aggression, violence and hatred. It was rejected while he was alive. Who actually is a Hindu — the person who shows compassion, believes in amity, love, tolerance and social harmony. Savarkar's concept of Hindutva will not work.

No consensus in panel on Covid-19 booster shot

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA
@New Delhi

GAPS in crucial large-scale post vaccination data may be delaying a decision on the need of booster doses of the Covid-19 vaccine for the Indian population, it has emerged.

An expert panel which met on Monday to discuss the introduction of booster doses has deferred coming up with conclusive recommendations to the government.

It was earlier hinted that the committee would advise the government on allowing additional shots for the vulnerable population apart from vaccination for adolescents and kids.

Top sources associated with the National Technical Advisory Group on Immunization told this daily there was no consensus as there is no large population based statistics on waning antibody levels after vaccination or on the duration of protection offered by the vaccines. A senior member of NTAGI, who did not want to be named, said that while nearly 128 crore Covid-19 vaccine doses have been administered in India so far and two crore cases have been recorded since April, there is no data that synthesizes hospitalization, age and vaccination status.

"There are only limited studies on a few thousand people by the ICMR's National Institute of Epidemiology from a few hospitals, and frontline workers such as Tamil Nadu Police and Punjab Police," the NTAGI member said.

Another source said it was stressed that granular post-vaccination data from India is critical because global studies are less. Also the epidemic course, such as number of waves, and the vaccines used in other countries are different from those in India.

Samiran Panda, the chief epidemiologist with ICMR and a member of the National Expert Group on Vaccine Administration for Covid-19, insisted that from a purely scientific perspective, it makes more sense to focus on covering over 80 per cent of the adult population with full vaccination first before anything else.

SII may cut production

New Delhi: With not enough orders for Covishield from the Centre, SII CEO Adar Poonawalla on Tuesday said the company is looking at slashing monthly production of vaccines by at least 50 per cent. SII has written to the government to seek clarity on its requirement, if any, for normal two doses in the country and also on booster doses, he said.

All Opposition MPs to sit in protest

RICHS SHARMA @New Delhi

TO escalate pressure on the government in Rajya Sabha, Opposition MPs will sit on dharna with 12 suspended MPs on Wednesday in front of the Mahatma Gandhi statue.

Both the Opposition and the government remain adamant over their stands with Opposition leaders saying there is no question of suspended MPs apologising as demanded by the treasury benches.

Congress chief Sonia Gandhi has called a meeting of the parliamentary committee on Wednesday morning to discuss the matter before the Opposition floor leaders meet at Kharge's chamber. Sources said MPs from both Houses are expected to join the dharna.

"Khargeji will raise the matter in the House. After that, all opposition MPs will march to Gandhi statue and sit with the suspended MPs to protest the undemocratic decision of the Centre," said RJD Rajya Sabha MP Manoj Kumar Jha.

NCP chief Sharad Pawar meets suspended MPs in Parliament | SHEKHAR YADAV

In the TMC parliamentary party meeting chaired by Lok Sabha MP Abhishek Banerjee, it was decided that the protest will continue in Rajya Sabha till the suspension is revoked. The party also decided to work in coordination with other Opposition parties but not play second fiddle to Congress.

The House saw repeated adjournments and Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya introduced The Assisted Reproductive Technology (Regulation) Bill 2021 and The Surrogacy (Regulation) Bill 2020 amid the din. But the house was adjourned for the day.

Holding the government responsible for the deadlock, Congress MP and Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha,l Mallikarjun Kharge alleged that the suspension is against rules and undemocratic.

Farmer compensation demanded

New Delhi: Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday raised in Lok Sabha the demand for compensation for families of farmers who died during the protests. Gandhi said the Punjab government has paid compensation to 400 such families. "We have a list of 400 farmers who died during protests for which the Punjab government has given compensations. The state government has provided jobs to dependents of 150 such farmers. I have this list and will table it on the floor of the House," said Gandhi, speaking during Zero Hour, which is for raising issues of importance in the parliamentary constituencies of the members.

Modi pulls up BJP MPs for low attendance

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

PULLING up MPs for low attendance in Parliament, Prime Minister Narendra Modi told the BJP parliamentary party meeting that the acts of the 12 Opposition MPs who have been suspended in for the current Rajya Sabha session have been seen by the country. Modi is learnt to have dwelt on the suspension issue at length with an apparent endorsement of the action taken against them by Rajya Sabha Chairman M Venkaiah Naidu.

The PM's remarks on suspended MPs were in line with the assertion of the government that the members had indulged in actions demeaning the House and they should apologise as stated by the Chair for suspension to be revoked.

The PM is also learnt to have taken a grim view of the low attendance of BJP MPs in the two Houses. Over the years, he has been expressing displeasure in parliamentary party meetings over attendance in Parliament. He is learnt to have remarked that even kids don't like it if they're said the same thing again and again. He is also learnt to have said that MPs should be present even if there is no listed legislative agenda.

MHA explains BSF decision

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

EMERGING threats of drones and cattle smuggling are among the reasons that made the Centre expand the territorial jurisdiction of Border Security Force in Punjab, West Bengal and Assam, the Union Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) said in Parliament on Tuesday.

Union Minister of State for Home Affairs Nityanand Rai made a statement on this while responding to questions from Pilibhit's BJP MP Varun Gandhi. "Extension in territorial jurisdiction of BSF in some states is aimed at empowering BSF to discharge its border guarding duties more effectively in the wake of use of technology like Dynamic Remotely Operated Navigation Equipment (Drones), Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAVs), etc by anti-national forces for surveillance as well as for smuggling of arms, narcotics and fake Indian currency notes (FICN)," the minister said in a written reply.

Self-declaration must for intnl flyers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

INTERNATIONAL passengers arriving in India are mandated to declare their health status prior to boarding on the Air Suvidha portal along with required documents including passport copy, Covid negative report from a test conducted within 72 hours of departure and vaccination certificate.

Following reports of heavy crowds at many airports in the country due to the new travel guidelines for international passengers, the government on Tuesday mandated self-declaration on Air Suvidha portal. Officials said the aim is to provide hassle-free, queue-free, and convenient air travel for passengers arriving in India. To ensure prevention of the Omicron variant, exemption forms from the portal have been discontinued and filling of the details have been made compulsory.

Civil aviation minister Jyotiraditya Scindia on Tuesday took stock of preparedness, testing capacities and the situation on the ground with regard to crowd management at all airports. "Have put an action plan with 8 compliances on immigration queues, expanding RT-PCR service providers ramping up help desks and forex counters, along with seamless floor management," said Scindia in a tweet.

The Air Suvidha portal was launched in August 2020 and has been strengthened to accommodate travel guidelines issued on 30 November 2021. Air Suvidha is first of its kind digital portal for easing international passenger arrival in India. It has already assisted 2,51,210 passengers.

Raut meets Gandhis for Oppn unity

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

AMID growing political acrimony between TMC and Congress, senior Shiv Sena leader and Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Raut met Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday. He requested them to start working on Opposition unity in the run-up to Lok Sabha elections in 2024. Raut also expressed the Shiv Sena's support to Congress in strengthening the Opposition's fight against the BJP-led NDA.

Strongly defending the grand old party's position in leading the Opposition, Raut said Congress is still a party of Pan-India political presence and it has a major role to strengthen the unity of the Opposition.

"Today, I met both Sonia Gandhiji and Rahul Gandhiji and requested them to start working on strengthening the Opposition ahead of the next Lok Sabha elections and taking on the BJP. Besides all this, we had a formal discussion regarding Maharashtra and other issues," Raut told this daily.

He admitted that BJP has already started working on the 2024 elections. So Congress should take the lead in working out strategies of the Opposition keeping in mind the BJP's strategy. He also felt the fight is going to be a tough one. Raut said both Congress leaders sounded affirmative on the Shiv Sena's suggestions on Opposition unity.

Upon being asked when Shiv Sena will join the UPA, Raut said it would be decided after proper consultation with Maharashtra Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray.

In solidarity, Nagaland calls off Hornbill Festival

Apex tribal oufit to approach Central government for AFSPA repeal

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

NAGALAND'S famed Hornbill Festival, which remained suspended since December 5 in the aftermath of the civilian killings in Mon, was officially called off on Tuesday.

The festival, organised from December 1 to 10 every year to mark statehood, draws tourists from all over the world.

The government's decision to call it off comes after several tribal organisations withdrew from it in a show of solidarity with the victims.

Six civilians were killed and two others injured in a botched ambush by the Army on December 4 at Oting in Mon. The incident occurred when the victims were returning home from a coal mine.

Seven more civilians and an Army jawan had lost their lives in a retaliatory attack by the villagers. The next day, a civilian was killed in firing by the Assam Rifles when a mob had attacked a camp of the paramilitary force in Mon town.

Official sources said the condition of two injured villagers, admitted to Assam Medical College and Hospital in Dibrugarh, was critical. Six others were undergoing treatment at CIHSR in Dimapur.

Nagaland minister and government spokesman Neiba Kronu said the state cabinet decided to "cease" all activities of the Hornbill Festival in view of the seven-day mourning announced by the Konyak Union. The cabinet decided on a simple and solemn closing ceremony. The state government appealed to people to support the entrepreneurs who set up stalls for the festival, by purchasing items sold by them.

The Konyak Union, the apex tribal organisation of the Konyak (tribe) Nagas, had said that there should be no movement of military forces or patrolling parties in Mon district during the seven days of mourning.

It warned that the forces would be held responsible for any untoward incident that might arise due to failure to abide by this decision. It demanded that action taken against the erring personnel must be put into the public domain within 30 days, relocation of 37th Assam Rifles from Mon district and the repeal of AFSPA.

PM attacks SP, says party 'red alert' for UP

PM Modi visits an exhibition after the inaugural event in Gorakhpur on Tuesday | PTI

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi intensified the war of words ahead of 2022 UP assembly polls with an attack on Samajwadi Party terming it 'lal topi wale' (red caps) who were interested in only 'lal batti' (red beacons).

The PM in an indirect reference to the Samjawadi Party said that 'lal topi wale' are a 'red alert' for the state as they wanted to come to power and give freehand to criminals. He was addressing a huge gathering at the inauguration of three mega projects worth ₹96,000 crore, including AIIMS, a major fertiliser plant and an ICMR Research Centre at the BRD Medical College in Gorakhpur, the stronghold of UP Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath.

The PM said the SP leadership had distanced itself from the ideals of Ram Manohar Lohia and Jai Prakash Narain.

PM Modi claimed that previous governments in Uttar Pradesh did not show interest towards people's development and made excuses. "Discussion were rife on benefits of setting up a fertiliser plant in Gorakhpur, as well as establishing an AIIMS. But no previous government showed any interest in setting it in motion," the PM said.

Hitting out at the opposition over its criticism of the handling of the pandemic, Modi said, "These people can never understand that even during the crisis, the double engine government continued with development. It did not let the work stop."

Governor Anandiben Patel and CM Yogi Adityanath were present at the event.

Akhilesh, Jayant give call to oust BJP in 2022

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

SAMAJWADI Party chief Akhilesh Yadav and Rashtriya Lok Dal chief Jayant Chaudhury came together and resolved to leave no stone unturned to defeat the BJP in Uttar Pradesh for the first time after striking alliance. At a joint SP-RLD Parivartan Sandesh rally organised in Meerut on Tuesday, the leaders gave the call for 'change' in 2022 ousting the ruling BJP.

However, they remained tightlipped on the seat-sharing formula between the two parties as was expected.

Meanwhile, responding to PM Modi's 'red caps-red alert' jibe in Gorakhpur, Akhilesh Yadav took to Twitter saying there was a 'red alert' for the BJP over price rise, unemployment, poor condition of farmers and labourers, and also red cap as it would oust the BJP in these elections.

Addressing the huge gathering of SP and RLD workers and supporters, Akhilesh attacked the BJP over "unfulfilled" election promises and alleged that it practised the politics of polarisation. He claimed that 2022 was set for a change in the dispensation.

Repeating his colour narrative linking the BJP with saffron colour, the SP chief said that those having just one colour could never bring happiness and prosperity.

RLD chief Jayant Chaudhury called upon the people of western UP to free CM Yogi Adityanath who he claimed was not able to manage the state. He said that this time the people were not going to digest BJP's politics of hatred.

Home minister assured action in school attack case: Christian leaders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

A DAY after a missionary school was attacked allegedly by right-wing Hindu workers and local residents in Ganj Basoda town, Christian religious leaders highlighted their concern to Madhya Pradesh home minister Narottam Mishra on Tuesday.

"As Indians, we take pride in our country's unique culture of unity in diversity. In the 75th year of Independence, when we are celebrating Azadi ka Amrut Mahotsava, some institutions of our community have come under attack by anti-social elements. This pains us and makes our people feel insecure and unsafe. We raised the issue with the home minister. He assured us appropriate action in the matter," Archbishop of Bhopal Archdiocese AAS Durairaj said, after meeting the minister.

On Monday, right-wing activists and local residents barged into St Joseph School in Ganj Basoda town, about 110 km from Bhopal, and pelted stones and vandalised property. The school managed to safely shift its Class XII students who were writing their Mathematics exam.

While right-wing outfits had claimed that the church and school did religious conversion of eight poor Hindu children, the education institute has refuted the allegation.

In a letter to the Vidisha district collector, the church has denied allegations of religious conversion. It claimed rituals which were performed on eight Christian children were like 'Janeu Sanskar' in Hinduism on October 30. It also called for an investigation to find out the truth

Later, Mishra said that a case of rioting was lodged by the police against the perpetrators of Sunday's incident. Four persons were detained in Ganj Basoda town of Vidisha district, he added.

PANEL SEEKS ACTION IN JABALPUR CASE

The National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) has written to administration and police of Madhya Pradesh's Jabalpur district, to act against a foster care home under the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act 2015 and MP Freedom of Religion Act 2021. The NCPCR recommended on December 3 to the Jabalpur district collector and police superintendent for action against the Karuna Navjeevan Foster Care Home (located at Ekta Market-Mandla Road Jabalpur) under the two laws, after an inspection of the home housing special and normal children and persons by its team last month, brought to the fore glaring anomalies.

UP SCHOOL MANAGERS DRUG & MOLEST 17 GIRLS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

SEVENTEEN girls were allegedly sedated and molested by two school managers who called and made them stay overnight on the pretext of practical classes in Uttar Pradesh's Muzaffarnagar.

While one accused was arrested, the other is on the run after the parents of the Class X students managed to get an FIR lodged on Monday following the intervention of local BJP MLA Pramod Utwal.

On November 18, the accused — Yogesh Kumar and Arjun Singh — had stopped the group of students at night and spiked their food, the police said, adding that no female teacher was present with them.

Coming from moderate and humble families, the girls were allegedly threatened to stay quiet else they would be failed in exams and their families would be killed. But, the traumatised students stopped going to school from the next day and later narrated the ordeal to their families.

The girls' families alleged that even after raising an alarm, the police failed at netting the accused. The incident was also reported by the Kamhera village pradhan who brought it to the notice of Muzaffarnagar SSP Abhishek Yadav on December 4.

Yadav deputed police officers to verify the charges and conduct an inquiry. It was found that two parents had given their complaint in this regard. After seeking complaints from the two parents, the SSP sent Pukazi SHO Vinod Kumar Singh to the police lines as punishment. Later, a case under relevant sections of IPC and Pocso Act was registered against the accused.

Maken in top Cong post irks Amarinder

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

AMARINDER Singh today lashed out at the Congress high command for appointing Ajay Maken as the Chairman of the Screening Committee for short-listing candidates for the 2022 assembly elections in Punjab. Maken is nephew of Lalit Maken, who was one of the main culprits of the 1984 anti-Sikh riots in Delhi.

Amarinder said that the Congress could not have nominated a worst person than Maken, at a time when the central government is moving ahead with prosecution of another culprit, Sajjan Kumar, while the Congress is rewarding the Makens and that too in Punjab, thus rubbing salt into Punjabis' wounds.

"The Congress party should have avoided naming someone like Maken, as the name itself draws derision and revulsion in Punjab for the involvement of his late uncle in the anti-Sikh riots where innocent victims were burnt alive to death", the former chief minister said, while adding, even otherwise Maken was not qualified enough to head the Screening Committee with veteran leaders like Ambika Soni and Sunil Jakhar being kept under him.

The ED case is based on an FIR filed by CBI in which they have accused Deshmukh of charges of corruption.

'Kashmiris have to fight for rights'

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

NATIONAL Conference president and former Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister Farooq Abdullah on Tuesday said people would have to rise up and choose path to bring the "snatched" rights back even as his party passed resolution on restoration of Articles 370 and 35A and statehood and continuation of half-yearly Durbar Move (shifting of seat of governance between twin capitals during winters and summers).

"We have to stand up and choose the path that will bring our rights (Articles 370 and 35A) back. We are not demanding presidentship, PMship, or palaces. We are demanding our rights back that were snatched from us. We will win this," Abdullah said in Jammu.

We are not demanding presidentship, PMship, or palaces. We are demanding our rights back that were snatched from us. We will win this

Farooq Abdullah, National Conference chief

The three-time former CM said people are resolute enough and steadfast in their resolve to stand for their rights. "We will fight for our rights peacefully as we don't believe in violence," he said.

Referring to PM Modi's remarks on June 24 APM that he wants to end Dil Ki Doori and Delhi ki Doori, NC president said, "What has been done since then to remove this Dil Ki Doori and Delhi ki Doori. Nothing substantial has been done on the ground. Instead more policies and measures have been taken which has further widened this gulf."

On repeal of the three farm laws, Abdullah said, "After sacrifices of over 700 farmers and in fear of defeat in the five poll-bound states, the centre repealed the farm laws. The centre only works to win elections and not for the prosperity of the nation."

GANDHI'S INDIA BEING TURNED TO GODSE'S INDIA: MEHBOOBA

FICCI suggests steps for rejuvenation of tea industry

The Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI), which is an association of business organisations, made a host of recommendations for the rejuvenation of Assam's tea industry. The recommendations were based on a detailed study carried out by FICCI and Globally Managed Services. Ranjit Barthakur, chairman of FICCI Northeast Advisory Council, said the tea industry, which was instrumental in laying the economic foundation of modern Assam, is in crisis today and immediate steps must be taken to reinvigorate it. He said the FICCI requested the government to consider bringing in cost-based floor pricing for tea. Biden and Putin talk as fears of Ukraine invasion grow

Western powers have no appetite for direct military conflict; White House hopes economic sanctions will dissuade Putin's warmongering

Ukraine: Russia trying to provoke fight in east

Kyiv: Ukrainian authorities on Tuesday charged that Russia is sending tanks and snipers to the line of contact in war-torn eastern Ukraine to "provoke return fire," an accusation that comes amid fears that a Russian troop buildup near the Ukrainian border might indicate plans for an invasion. Ukraine's Defense Ministry released the statement just hours before the video call between Joe Biden and Vladimir Putin. The ministry alleged in the statement that Russia is holding "training camps under the leadership of regular servicemen of the Russian Armed Forces" and "reinforcing units near the contact line..." with artillery

WASHINGTON, MOSCOW

JOE Biden and Vladimir Putin held a two-hour video summit Tuesday in which the US president said he would warn of painful sanctions and increased military support for Eastern Europe if Russia invades Ukraine.

"Greetings, Mr. President," Putin said in a brief video clip released by the Kremlin. Biden said it was "good to see" his Russian counterpart, adding that he hoped their next session would be in person.

Despite the friendly opening scene, the summit, lasting just over two hours, was steeped in tension.

Russia denies planning to invade Ukraine, but with satellite pictures showing massive troop concentrations on the border, fears are growing over war in Europe.

Reflecting the brittle atmosphere, Biden sat behind closed doors in the White House's high security Situation Room. By contrast, Biden held a similar video summit with Chinese President Xi Jinping three weeks ago in the more decorative Roosevelt Room, with journalists invited to witness the opening minutes.

The United States says it doesn't know for sure what Russia intends to do in Ukraine, but is alarmed at the deployment of some 100,000 battle ready Russian troops to the border. Russia already supports a powerful separatist rebellion across swaths of eastern Ukraine and annexed the Crimean peninsula from Ukraine in 2014.

The US and European allies have worked to bolster Ukraine's military since 2014 when the country's armed forces crumpled in the face of Russian pressure. EU's chief Ursula von der Leyen warned that Russia will be hit with more and tougher EU sanctions if it threatens Ukraine.

Bloomberg reported that the US and European allies are considering sanctions against Russia's biggest banks and the country's ability to convert roubles into foreign currencies such as dollars.

Moscow calls invasion talk "hysteria." Instead, Putin intends to tell Biden that he sees Ukraine's growing alliance with Western nations as threat to Russian security — and that any move by Ukraine to join NATO would be crossing a red line. Even though Ukraine is nowhere near being able to join the US-led military alliance, Putin wants a "legal" guarantee this will never happen.

"Our president is ready to convey his concerns to his American colleague, listen to his concerns and give appropriate explanations," a Kremlin spokesman said.

The US and NATO say Russia cannot be given a veto over Ukraine's ambitions. The White House said that Biden and Putin began their video summit at 1507 GMT. AFP

Samsung's surprise rejig merges units, replaces CEOs

SEOUL

SAMSUNG Electronics on Tuesday replaced all three CEOs, the heads of its major business units, in a surprise move that saw the merging of the company's mobile and consumer electronics businesses into a single unit. Han Jong-hee, 59, was promoted to vice chairman and CEO and will be in charge of the newly merged SET division. The shake-up leaves two co-CEOs, not three, heading the world's biggest manufacturer of smartphones, televisions and semiconductors.

Kyung Kye-hyun, 58, will lead the components business. Kyung is a semiconductor design expert, having previously led the company's flash product and technology team.

The Wall Street Journal reported that the changes reflected how "the sources of the company's profits have shifted over the years. In the early 2000s, flat-screen TVs propelled performance, then smartphones were the cash cow for much of the 2010s. Semiconductors are powering results now."

The management reshuffle came a week after the company overhauled its position system and abolished the seniority-based top-down approach, in order to nurture young talent and create a more flexible corporate culture. Lee did not get the chairman post at Samsung Electronics -- the crown jewel of Samsung Group. ENS

'Britain left Afghan allies to die at Taliban hands'

LONDON

BRITAIN'S Foreign Office abandoned many of the nation's allies in Afghanistan and left them to the mercy of the Taliban during the fall of the capital, Kabul, because of a dysfunctional and arbitrary evacuation effort, a whistleblower alleged Tuesday.

In devastating evidence to a parliamentary committee, Raphael Marshall said thousands of pleas for help via email were unread between Aug. 21 and Aug. 25. The former Foreign Office employee estimated that only 5% of Afghan nationals who applied to flee under one UK programme received help. He said that at one point, he was the only person monitoring the inbox.

"There were usually over 5,000 unread emails in the inbox at any given moment, including many unread emails dating from early in August," he wrote to the Foreign Affairs Select Committee, which is investigating Britain's chaotic departure from Afghanistan. "These emails were desperate and urgent. I was struck by many titles including phrases such as 'please save my children'."

Marshall said some of those left behind had been killed by the Taliban.

One of Marshall's most explosive allegations is a claim that British officials spent time and energy arranging the evacuation of almost 200 dogs and cats from a Kabul animal shelter run by Nowzad, a charity founded by former Royal Marine Pen Farthing.

Marshall claimed Foreign Office staff had "received an instruction from the Prime Minister to use considerable capacity to transport Nowzad's animals." He claimed British soldiers were put at risk to get the animals out of Kabul.

The PM's spokesman, Max Blain, said the allegation was "entirely untrue" and neither Johnson nor his wife Carrie, an animal-welfare advocate, had been involved in helping the animals leave.

He said Farthing and his animals left Afghanistan on a privately chartered plane. AP

Evergrande closer to default as debt deadline passes

BEIJING

DEBT-LADEN Chinese property developer Evergrande has for the first time missed a deadline to repay some of its overseas creditors, a report said Tuesday, raising the prospect of it defaulting as it prepares for a government-backed mega-restructure.

As a 30-day grace period on $82.5 million in overdue coupon payments ended Tuesday, Bloomberg News reported some bondholders had yet to receive payment.

The coupons were initially due on Nov 6 with a one-month grace period with Evergrande's initial default exacerbating already swirling concerns over its future and the wider Chinese property market. The government sparked a crisis within the property sector when it launched a drive last year to curb debt among Evergrande and other real estate firms.

Companies that had accrued huge debt to expand suddenly found the taps turned off and began struggling to complete projects, pay contractors and meet repayments.

Evergrande, with a debt pile of over $300 billion, is the most prominent firm to have buckled under the crackdown, but others have also suffered.

The real estate industry is a top growth driver for the world's second-biggest economy and the debt crisis has raised fears of a spillover into other key sectors.

Evergrande has yet to comment on the bond repayments.

As it scrambles to contain the fallout, the Chinese government is poised to take a leading role in the restructure, analysts said.

> Nomura's chief China economist Lu Ting

After Evergrande said on Friday it may not be able to meet its financial obligations, the government summoned the company's founder and announced several moves that have given the clearest picture yet of Beijing's plans to end the crisis.

Evergrande announced Monday a new seven-strong "risk management committee" that would involve only two executives from the company, with others including officials from state entities. Guangdong's government is also sending a working team to the company, which analysts at Jefferies said indicated a "potential takeover of Evergrande". AFP

US Treasury wants registry to crack down on shell firms

WASHINGTON

The US Treasury is moving to combat corruption, money laundering and tax evasion by shell companies by requiring firms to disclose their ownership, according to proposed rules announced Tuesday.

The crackdown comes as President Joe Biden launches a government-wide effort against graft ahead of International Anti-Corruption Day on Thursday. The proposal would create a database to record "beneficial owners" of all companies and many trusts, meaning anyone who owns 25 percent of a firm or can make decisions for the company, Treasury said.

"The proposed rule for beneficial ownership reporting is a major step toward addressing the gaps in our corporate transparency framework that allow corruption to flourish and illicit funds to flow into the United States," Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen said. The rule "will help close the loopholes that undermine US national security, bolster economic fairness and protect the integrity of our financial system." Treasury's corruption and terrorism watchdog, the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network, will collect public comments on the proposed rule through Feb 7. AFP

Alleged member of Khashoggi murder squad held

Paris: French police on Tuesday arrested at Paris's main airport a suspected member of the team that murdered Saudi journalist Jamal Khashoggi in 2018 outside the kingdom's consulate in Istanbul, sources said. Khalid Alotaibi, 33, was detained by border police on the basis of an arrest warrant issued by Turkey just before taking a flight to Riyadh from Charles de Gaulle airport. He is due to appear before prosecutors on Wednesday. A Turkish court in 2020 began to try in absentia 20 suspects over the murder of Khashoggi, including two former aides to Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman. Turkish prosecutors then indicted six more Saudi suspects over the killing later that year, but no Saudi official has ever faced justice in person in Turkey over the killing.

Germany's Angela Merkel bows out after 16 years

Berlin: Angela Merkel was assured of a place in the history books as soon as she became Germany's first female chancellor on Nov. 22, 2005. Over the next 16 years, she was credited with raising Germany's influence, working to hold a fractious European Union together, managing a string of crises and being a role model for women. Now that near-record tenure is ending with her leaving office at age 67 to praise from abroad and enduring popularity at home. Her designated successor, Olaf Scholz, is expected to take office on Wednesday.

ROHINGYA SUE FACEBOOK FOR $150 BN OVER HATE SPEECH

LOS ANGELES

ROHINGYA refugees sued Facebook on Monday for $150 billion over claims the social network is failing to stem hate speech on its platform, exacerbating violence against the vulnerable minority.

The complaint, lodged in a California court, says the algorithms that power the US-based company promote disinformation and extremist thought that translates to real-world violence.

"Facebook is like a robot programmed with a singular mission: to grow," the court document states. "The undeniable reality is that Facebook's growth, fueled by hate, division, and misinformation, has left hundreds of thousands of devastated Rohingya lives in its wake."

The mainly Muslim group faces widespread discrimination in Myanmar, where they are despised as interlopers despite having lived in the country for generations.

A military-backed campaign saw hundreds of thousands of Rohingya driven across the border into Bangladesh in 2017, where they have since lived in sprawling refugee camps.

Many others remain in Myanmar, where they are not permitted citizenship and are subject to communal violence, as well as official discrimination by the ruling military junta. Critics say even when alerted to hate speech on its platform, the social media company fails to act. AFP

Resistance to junta moves out from under Suu Kyi's shadow

Myanmar's military hopes jailing Aung San Suu Kyi will be the "closing chapter" for its longtime nemesis and her party, but resistance to junta rule has already moved out from under her shadow. Flash mob rallies and adoption of the three-finger pro-democracy salute have become prominent symbols since the coup, showing younger activists share more in common with contemporaries in Hong Kong and Thailand than the elderly veterans of their own country's political struggles. Hundreds have trekked to rebel-held areas for combat training or joined "people's defence forces".

Powerful minister quits after sexist tirade, rape threat against actress

A Bangladeshi politician resigned after a sexist tirade against the granddaughter of the country's opposition leader and claims he threatened an actress with rape. State minister of information Murad Hassan launched into a diatribe against Khaleda Zia, a former PM later jailed by current PM Sheikh Hasina, during a talk show appearance broadcast on a pro-government Facebook page last week. He then turned his attention to Zia's granddaughter, who lives in exile in London, telling his audience that the 26-year-old "can't sleep at night without sleeping with black men".

Crypto players uncertain about their fate

Several versions of the draft of the cryptocurrency bill are in circulation; finance ministry says draft not ready yet

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

WITH many versions of the draft of the cryptocurrency bill in circulation, uncertainty continues for crypto investors as the government is yet to approve the crypto bill, and finance ministry officials claim that the draft bill is "yet to be finalised".

Earlier, there were reports that under the new draft bill there is provision of punishment of any violation, a fine of ₹20 crore or about $2.7 million, or imprisonment of 1.5 years will be slapped on the individual. It also said that the bill is likely to use the term 'cryptoassets' rather than 'cryptocurrencies,' and won't refer to the central bank's plan to create its own digital currency, citing sources.

"These are all conflicting reports. One report is talking about prohibition while others are talking about regulators. I do not think anybody has seen the content of the bill. The bill has not been presented to the Cabinet yet. We have to wait and watch (to get a clearer picture)," Nischal Shetty of WazirX says.

However, sources in the finance ministry told TNIE that what was in circulation was the old draft of the bill and the new draft is "yet to be finalised".

"How can a draft be in circulation if it is not approved by the cabinet? To my best knowledge it is yet to be finalised. Once it is ready it will be approved by the cabinet first and after that it will be tabled in Parliament. Till then speculations will go on," a finance ministry official told TNIE.

Till date the government is not giving a clear picture on the fate of cryptocurrency, saying that the old bill is being reworked. There were reports that the bill will be taken up for discussion this week by the cabinet. "There were other dimensions and the old bill had to be reworked and now we are trying to work on a new bill," Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman had said last week responding to a series of questions in the Rajya Sabha.

Once ready, bill will be approved by the Cabinet first

"How can a draft be in circulation if it is not approved by the cabinet? To my best knowledge it is yet to be finalised. Once it is ready it will be approved by the Cabinet first and after that it will be tabled in Parliament. Till then speculations will go on," a senior official said.

CENTRAL BANK CUTS RATES ON RELENDING FACILITY

China's central bank on Tuesday cut the rates on its relending facility by 25 bps to support the rural sector and small firms. After the cut, the three-month relending rate stands at 1.7%, while the six-month rate is at 1.9% and the one-year at 2%, the People's Bank of China said on its website. State-run Securities Times reported earlier that the central bank would cut the relending rates from Tuesday. Wen Bin, senior economist at Minsheng Bank, said the move underlined the central bank's bid to give more targeted support for small firms that have been hurt by rising production costs. But the chance of a cut in the benchmark lending rate remains low in the near term, analysts said. In July 2020, the central bank cut the re-discount and relending rates by 25 bps for small firms and the rural sector. Investors are closely watching to see if the central bank will cut its benchmark lending rate, or loan prime rate (LPR), in the coming months, after it said on Monday it would cut banks' reserve requirement ratios from December, 15.

BANKS TOLD TO REFRAIN FROM TRADING DIGITAL ASSETS

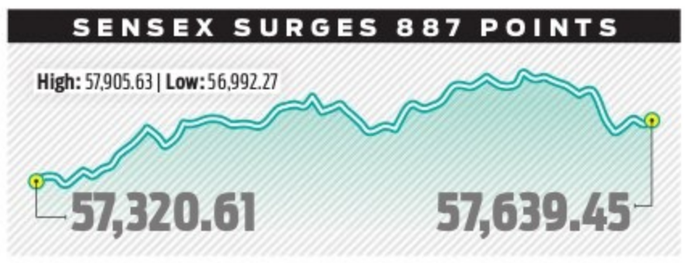
Thailand's central bank on Tuesday said it does not want commercial banks to be directly involved in trading digital assets, citing the risks stemming from high price volatility. The remarks by Bank of Thailand senior director Chayawadee Chai-Anant come as Thai lenders have been investing in local digital asset exchanges. This year, Siam Commercial Bank Plc (SCB) announced an 18 billion baht acquisition of Bitkub, while Bank of Ayudhya Plc was part of a 1.3 billion baht investment in another exchange, Zipmex. Trading and use of cryptocurrencies have gained momentum in Thailand in the last year with retailers and real estate developers accepting digital assets as payments. The kingdom, which has eight licensed cryptocurrency exchanges, saw about 205 billion baht in digital asset transactions in November, official data showed. SCB Securities, a unit of SCB, also holds a licence but is not currently operating an exchange. Last week, the central bank also warned companies over accepting cryptocurrencies as payment. It is working with other agencies on ways to regulate digital assets.

TAIWAN

NOVEMBER EXPORTS HIT RECORD, OUTLOOK GOOD

Taiwan's exports rose for a 17th straight month in November to a new high as its manufacturers gained from sustained demand for consumer electronics in the coming year-end shopping season and amid a global shortage of computer chips. Exports last month were the highest monthly figure on record, rising 30.2% from a year earlier to $41.58 billion, the Ministry of Finance said on Tuesday. The ministry attributed the growth to strong demand for tech products in the festive season in which vendors traditionally launch new models such as smartphones. The growth was also supported by robust demand for chips, a shortage of which has crippled car plants globally and is affecting consumer electronics. Exports of telecommunication and electronics products rose 19.5% in November to reach $5.69 billion, with semiconductor exports growing 26.7% from a year earlier. November exports to China, Taiwan's largest trading partner, grew an annual 18.9% to $17.14 billion, while exports to the US jumped 39.2%. Imports leapt 33.8%, above economists' expectations for a 25.45% rise and an increase of 37.2% in October.

SENSEX SURGES 887 POINTS



Eye on RBI move; markets rebound as virus fears wane

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE bulls made a strong comeback on the Dalal Street on Monday after two sessions of sharp losses. The BSE Sensex rose as much as 1,158 points or 2% intraday and the Nifty 50 index moved above the 17,250-level.

During the last hour of the trading session, the two indexes shed some points with Sensex closing 887 points higher (or 1.5%) at 57,634 and Nifty 50 shutting shop up 264 points at 17,177 (1.5%).

Investor sentiment got a cheer up on Tuesday on hopes that the Reserve Bank of India will likely keep its key borrowing and lending rates unchanged on Wednesday amidst the fast spread of the Omicron coronavirus variant. Add to it, White House medical advisor's comment that the omicron variant might not be very dangerous lifted investors' mood worldwide.

"Equity markets witnessed a share rebound on the back of positive global cues. Comments from the US stating that the new virus might be less effective than earlier feared helped elevate global sentiments. Both Sensex and Nifty closed with gains of over 1.5%. Buying was witnessed in banking metals and auto stocks ahead of the RBI meeting on interest rates," Siddhartha Khemka, Head - Retail Research, Motilal Oswal Financial Services said.

He added that while the markets have seen some relief today, overall volatility is likely to remain for some more time until Foreign institutional investors (FIIs) selling reduces. Investors should await cues from the global Central banks for direction on the monetary policy as well as interest rates. Many analysts also feel that given the uncertainties of the Omicron variant on the economy, it is better to adopt a wait-and-watch approach.

Santosh Meena, Head of Research, Swastika Investmart said that we are seeing the first meaningful correction that has completed its 10% from highs of 18604 (Nifty) at the low of 16789.

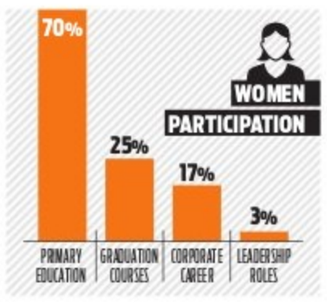
Just 17% women get in corporate jobs; 3% make it to leadership roles: Study

SAMIKSHA GOEL @ New Delhi

EVEN as 70% of women in India have access to primary education, only 17% are entering a corporate career and a mere 3% make it to leadership roles, according to a study released on Tuesday.

A study by global management consulting firm Zinnov reveals that just 25% of women pursue graduation courses in the country. "There is a significant drop when it comes to enrolling for higher education, which lowers further till graduation, making grassroot initiatives critical to engage the larger community," it says.

The report highlights that over 1,00,000 women in India have quit their corporate career in the last 5 years and only 2% of them have been reintegrated into the workforce.



"A significant number of women continue to drop out of corporate careers due to multiple life events like maternity, caregiving responsibilities, relocation, workplace barriers, lack of flexibility, role stagnation among others," the report explains. Making a case for returnship programmes, the study says, "Conventionally, companies have built their talent arsenal through campus recruitment, lateral hires, etc., underutilising a talent trump card — women on a career break. Zinnov believes structured returnship programmes, given the vast pool of 100,000+ qualified women on a career break, if reintegrated will be instrumental in combating this phenomenon."

A back-of-the-envelope calculation shows even if companies build sustainable returnship programmes to reintegrate just 10% of this pool of talent, it can fulfil a significant portion of its current open job roles, it adds.

Nivedita Nanjappa, Head of I&D Practice, Zinnov, said, "Returnship programmes have a deep potential to scale... While some companies have done so to reasonable effect, there are just a few successful use cases."

Telcos must follow norms on outgoing SMS for porting out customers: TRAI

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FOLLOWING the complaint from Reliance Jio and NGO Telecom Watchdog that Vodafone Idea new prepaid plans do not allow users to port easily, the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) on Tuesday directed all the telecom service providers to comply with TRAI's regulations in respect of outgoing SMS facility to porting out customers. The regulator said it is contravention of Mobile Number Portability Regulations as it takes away the consumer's right to avail mobile number portability facility.

"The authority... hereby directs all access service providers to enable, with immediate effect, for all mobile subscribers, both prepaid and postpaid, requesting for a unique porting code, the facility to send SMS on short code 1900, in order to exercise their right to avail porting facility in accordance with the Telecommunication Mobile Number Portability Regulations, 2009 (8 of 2009}, irrespective of the value of the tariff offers/vouchers," said the regulator in a notification.

Last month, the telcos increased their tariff up to 25% to improve its average revenue per user (ARPU). Vodafone Idea has hiked its entry-level plan of ₹75 to ₹99 for 28 days validity. However, this plan is not bundled with SMS service. Therefore, any users who want to opt for porting, will have to choose a higher priced plan around ₹180 to get access to SMS services. Subsequently, Reliance Jio and NGO Telecom Watchdog have written to the TRAI, highlighting Vodafone Idea's new tariff structure that is restricting the entry-level customers to port their mobile number.

"In the recent past, the authority has received various complaints from subscribers for not being able to send SMS on short code 1900, specified for UPC generation for availing MNP facility despite having sufficient balance in their prepaid accounts," said the TRAI. To port from one network to another, a user has to send a short message on 1900. As per the TRAI rules, such SMS shall not exceed the tariff applicable for ordinary SMS under the tariff plan opted by the subscribers.

Around 10.10 million subscribers submitted their MNP requests with their respective carriers in September, increasing their cumulative porting requests to 638.25 million.

Refurbished furniture mrkt may hit $10 bn by '25

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

THE Indian refurbished furniture and renewed appliances market is expected to revolutionise and drive sales among millennials and GenZs, as a recent report estimates the market to grow to $9.8 billion by 2025 from $5.7 billion in 2020.

Since business models exclusively focus on resale, refurbishment, recycling and remanufacturing, these will be game-changers for the furniture and appliance industry in India, says a recent report by Grant Thornton Bharat.

At present, there are various platforms such as Olx, Droom, Quikr, Flipkart's 2GUD and Amazon Renewed that play a major role in the refurbished market. There are companies like Bengaluru-based Furbicle that offers remanufactured new-age furniture and Zefo, an online marketplace for buying and selling pre-owned and refurbished electronic appliances and furniture. Zefo was acquired by Quikr in 2019.

Of the total potential market, around 85% of the products are usually sold as second-hand and unboxed. As refurbishment gains traction, the share of renewed products is likely to improve, the report adds. The global used furniture market was estimated to be around $16 billion in 2020 and is expected to reach a valuation of $23 billion by 2025. It may be noted that Ikea has committed to become completely circular by the end of 2030. Currently, 60% of the raw material they utilise is renewable.

Rahul Kapur, Partner, Growth at Grant Thornton Bharat, said, "The circular economy is a dynamic manufacturing and production concept that encourages the reuse and reutilisation of resources and materials at multiple levels. India, with the largest young population and a growing middle class, is at the right stage of transformation where the adoption of circular practices can bring about phenomenal change."

As per estimates, the circular economy in India has a potential to create an annual value of $218 billion by 2030 and $624 billion by 2050. Through the optimum utilisation of technology, awareness among consumers and an increased focus on circularity, India can quickly gain a competitive edge over other mature markets, the report said.

Looking at various steps to boost coking coal output, says govt

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FOR higher supply of coking coal in the country and to ensure it is provided at a cheaper rate, the government is considering measures like linking the price of domestic coking coal to the imported dry fuel.

It is also planning on identification of additional coking coal blocks for production by state-run Coal India Ltd (CIL) and private sector, auction of coal bed methane (CBM) overlap coking coal blocks, and allocation of coking coal linkages by CIL to private washeries to boost coking coal production in India.

"The recently formed Inter-Ministerial Committee including industry stakeholders to strategise augmentation of coking coal production in India has submitted its recommendations. Based on this, the Ministry of Coal has set up Mission Coking Coal to evolve a road map for increasing production and utilisation of domestic coking coal," said the ministry of coal in a statement. The government also said that for the first time ever, four blocks of coking coal were put up for auction with no end-use restriction in the first tranche of commercial coal auction, out of which three were successfully auctioned. In the second tranche of commercial coal mines auction, six blocks were put up for auction out of which one successfully auctioned.

"With the proposed measures and policy initiatives, coking coal has the potential to emerge as one of the important new business areas for CIL and other private sector players, which will contribute in multiple ways for economic development of the country," informed the ministry. The coking coal is mainly used in the manufacturing of steel through the blast furnace route.

Injury may keep Williamson out of action for 2 months

New Zealand skipper Kane Williamson is likely to be out of action for at least two months with an elbow tendon injury, Black Caps coach Gary Stead has hinted. He was ruled out of the second Test against India with the nagging injury and Stead confirmed that he is likely to sit out at least eight or nine weeks although might be spared of any surgery.

MINISTRY WANTS NSFs TO HAVE ROBUST GRADING SYSTEM

Federations asked to come up with proper selection process

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

A FEW events may soon be a regular feature in all sports calendars soon. The sports ministry has suggested to the National Sports Federations (NSFs) to have a proper ranking system in place for their athletes during their Annual Calendar for Training and Competition (ACTC).

Though some of the NSFs already have their own ranking system and nationals, sports like wrestling don't. Ranking national tournaments can be part of the ACTC and could be conducted under government grants. Racquet sports like table tennis, badminton and squash have a mechanism that can rank players.

The ministry told NSFs that they should have an appropriate selection policy for athletes so that there is no controversy later. Though uploading appropriate selection policy on the website has been part of the ministry's earlier directive and also sports code, some of the federations are not following it properly. And ministry had insisted that the selection policy details should be transparent and uploaded on the websites of the NSFs. The Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) feels their selection and trials are transparent enough.

Selection policy has been an issue that had been irking the ministry for a while. There have been cases when athletes land up in court and this is something that they would want to avoid. Sometimes it gets ugly as it happened before the Rio Olympics when double Olympic medallist Sushil Kumar wanted a trial against Narsingh Yadav. It turned so messy that CBI had to be called in. In the end, nobody represented the country as Narsingh tested positive.

The recent unwarranted case involving table tennis player Manika Batra and the Table Tennis Federation of India too could have prompted the ministry and the SAI to come up with this policy. The matter is still in court. However, the bone of contention is whether it is mandatory to attend national camp to make one available for selection. Some NSFs feel that if the court says national camp will not be mandatory, it will create a lot of problem for all, including SAI who prefers athletes to be part of the camps.

Another selection issue being heard in court is boxer Arundhati Choudhury's plea to fight Lovlina Borgohain to decide who can represent India at the women's Worlds (deferred to next year). The court had been critical about selection policies during hearings. The federation has told court that selection trials would be conducted.

Some of the federations feel that top players should be exempted from participating in nationals or ranking events. Their argument is that athletes like Olympic champion, Neeraj Chopra, PV Sindhu are already playing a lot of international meets. They should be able to chose their events at home.

WFI to organise 1st ranking tournament

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

> We don't want a talented wrestler to miss the opportunity. The ranking tournament will be a big chance for wrestlers to prove their worth and challenge their more famed counterparts by competing against them in the trials
>
> Vinod Tomar, WFI assistant secretary

THE Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) is planning to host its first ever ranking tournament, which will be open to all wrestlers on paying a prescribed entry fee. In all probability, the tournament would be hosted next month at IG Stadium, New Delhi. The decision will come as a big relief to wrestling heavyweights like Haryana, Railways and Services especially after the federation in its AGM last month decided that no state will be allowed to field more than one team at the nationals.

As was the practice till the 2021 nationals held last month, previous champions (top three) were allowed to field two teams in the event. However, the WFI in its bid to give wrestlers from weaker states more opportunities decided to put a cap on team participation.

"That's true, we are planning to host a ranking tournament. The dates have not been finalised yet but most probably it will be held in January 2022 in Delhi," Vinod Tomar, WFI assistant secretary, told this daily.

"If a wrestler wishes to compete, he/she can approach the federation individually and participate by paying an entry fee. The state units, Railways and Services can also field their teams as there will no limit on number of participants in a weight category. However, only top 10 wrestlers will be given certificates of participation," added Tomar.

The top four finishers (gold, silver and two bronze medallists) from the ranking tournament will then be allowed to compete in selection trials being held to pick up wrestlers for national camp. They can compete with national medallists in the trials and if they succeed, they can find a place in the camp to train and prepare for the international events.

"We don't want a talented wrestler to miss the opportunity. The ranking tournament will be a big chance for wrestlers to prove their worth and challenge their more famed counterparts by competing against them in the trials. So this tournament will ensure that nobody will be left out and also help the federation in maintaining record of seeded wrestlers in each weight category. The amount has already been sanctioned by SAI for organising the tournament."

Level I & II course

The WFI with support from the Sports Authority of India (SAI) is organising Level I and Level II courses for its coaches under the aegis of the United World Wrestling (UWW) at SAI centre, Sonepat. The Level I course began on Tuesday and will run till Thursday. The Level II will be organised from December 11 to 13.

"The course will be supervised by the UWW Educator Georgi from Bulgaria. The objective of this course is to develop the knowledge and skills of the NIS qualified coaches. The WFI selected 45 NIS qualified coaches across the country for participation in the said course. The coaches who have already qualified Level I course, are eligible to attend the Level II course," said a WFI statement. The WFI will hire the service of the qualified coaches for national coaching camp, added the statement.

Finally tennis returns to India, players relieved

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

ARJUN Kadhe spent an additional 75% on travel-related expenses over the last two years because of a dearth of tennis matches in India. Sidharth Rawat hasn't played in a Challenger level event since March 2020 because of visa-related issues thanks to the pandemic. In fact, he gave his UPSC exams in October as he decided to keep his options open.

These were just two of the many stories that a majority of India's tennis players endured — still continue to endure, really — amid the pandemic. Some of that is set to change after Karnataka State Lawn Tennis Association (KSLTA) confirmed that Bengaluru will host two back-to-back Challenger 80 events (singles winner will get 80 ranking points) in the second and third weeks of February. "Yes, that is correct," Sunil Yajaman, honorary joint secretary, KSLTA, confirmed.

With the Pune Open, an ATP 250 meet, also returning to the calendar in 2021, this is a much-needed boost to the players so starved of domestic meets. One only had to listen to both Kadhe and Rawat who were both intimate with the developments.

"It's awesome to know that there will be Challengers as well as a 250 early next year," Kadhe said. "The last 20 months or so has been tough. I have played the last 25-30 weeks without a break. The expenses have doubled as there are no home tournaments.

"This means that we can play in India for a few weeks without booking a flight ticket or think about visa and so on. We can get a few wild cards... not just for me, this is good news for all Indian players."

With the Pune Open slated to begin from January 31, players ranked outside the top 200 can stay in India for three consecutive weeks. That's not happened since the pandemic began. Even otherwise, a Challenger is India is more cost effective for Indians. With reduced competition, it also allows them to pick up more points (the last Challenger, February 2020, also took place in Bengaluru).

This is why Rawat 'can't wait'. "I have had some problems with my visa so I haven't been able to go to Europe," he said. "This will allow me to play in India for a few weeks at least." To make it count, though, they have to start picking up the points.

BFC aim for positive result against Hyderabad

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AFTER starting their ISL campaign on a bright note with a win over NorthEast, Bengaluru FC have not managed to yield positive results in their last three matches. As a result, they lie eighth on the table with four points. Though they lost their last match against Mumbai City, the Blues showed that they are gradually getting into the groove under coach Marco Pezzaiuoli with some high pressing game.

Now, they will look to get a positive result when they face Hyderabad FC at the GMC Athletic Stadium in Bambolim on Wednesday. However, Pezzaiuoli will hope for an improved performance at the back, which has not been great. They are yet to keep a clean sheet this season. "I think our best game of the season so far came against Mumbai (last game). We developed our style of play, we pressed high and got the ball back very fast, and our counter pressing was also very good. We want to now improve on our set pieces and defending. We could have defended better in certain instances, and we are working on that," Pezzaiuoli added.

Five to watch when the Ashes begins

The first Test between England and Australia starts at Brisbane's Gabba on Wednesday. Here, AFP Sport identifies the five players who could be match-winners in the Ashes.

61.80

Steve Smith has scored 27 centuries in 77 Tests at an average of 61.80

STEVE SMITH (AUSTRALIA)

The world's number three ranked Test batsman — behind England skipper Joe Root and New Zealand's Kane Williamson — was heroic during the last Ashes series in England in 2019. He plundered 774 runs at an average of 110.57, including three centuries and a highest score of 211 to help his team draw the series 2-2 and retain the urn.

JOE ROOT (ENGLAND)

Joe Root is chasing history as a batsman in the Ashes at the same time as he shoulders the burden of turning around England's fortunes after recent batterings in Australia, where the tourists have lost nine of their last 10 Tests. Root has amassed 1,455 runs in 2021, 333 runs short of Mohammad Yousuf's calendar year record. He has a maximum of six innings before the end of the year to overtake Yousuf.

PAT CUMMINS (AUSTRALIA)

The world's number one ranked Test bowler, new Australia captain Cummins will play an crucial role. As leader of a formidable pace attack alongside Mitchell Starc and Josh Hazlewood, he has an unerring ability to hit the right length and was outstanding when Australia retained the Ashes on English soil in 2019.

21.59

Pat Cummins' career average of 21.59 is superior to any other current Test bowler

CAMERON GREEN (AUSTRALIA)

Having first shot to prominence at the age of 17 as the youngest fast bowler to take five wickets in an innings in the Sheffield Shield, blistering batting form for Western Australia earned Green a Test debut against India a year ago at Adelaide. He grabbed his chance, making 236 runs from four Tests against India, prompting coach Justin Langer to call him "a real class act".

BEN STOKES (ENGLAND)

Rarely away from the centre of the action, Stokes is a hard-hitting batsman, lively fast-medium bowler and an athletic fielder in the slips or in the outfield. His overall Test figures are not startling but the 30-year-old brings an X-factor showcased in a previous generation by the likes of Ian Botham — an ability to make things happen and to win matches almost single-handedly.

ENGLAND REST SENIOR PACER ANDERSON FOR FIRST TEST

BRISBANE: England have decided to rest senior pacer James Anderson for the first Ashes Test as part of their workload management. "Jimmy is fit to play, and is not carrying an injury. With five Tests in six weeks the plan was to get him ready for the second Test in Adelaide," the England and Wales Cricket Board said in a statement.

ZENIT VS CHELSEA

Thomas Tuchel's side hasn't had the greatest time of it in the Premier League in recent times, winning just two of their last five matches. If they allow that malaise to creep here, they could well advance as the second team and that may not work out all that well.

Women's Challengers: Pooja v Rana clash in final

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

AFTER collapsing to 57/4 in their final league game against India A, Pooja Vastrakar led from the front with a magnificent run-a-ball 96, taking India D to 219/7 in Vijayawada on Tuesday. The allrounder smashed six boundaries and four sixes before getting out on the last ball of the innings. Renuka Singh Thakur shone with the ball for India A, taking three wickets.

In reply, Disha Kasat top-scored with a 73-ball 51, but Sneh Rana's India A fell short by 22 runs. The two teams will face each other again in the final on Thursday.

For India B to qualify, they had to beat India C in the other match, and wanted India A to lose against India D. Batting first, Anushka Sharma and Priya Punia scored half-centuries for India C, but they slumped from 150/3 to 212 all out, thanks to Chandu V's five-wicket haul.

Chasing a sub-par total, India B skipper Taniya Bhatia promoted herself to open the batting, but the move did not work as she could manage only 30 runs from 48 balls before getting out to Tarannum Pathan. C Prathyusha and Pathan picked up wickets at regular intervals as India B finished with 187/8 in 50 overs, falling short by 25 runs. Pathan was the pick of the bowlers for India C with 4/39 in her 10 overs.

BRIEF SCORES: India D 219/7 in 50 ovs (Vastrakar 96; thakur 3/47) bt India A 197/7 in 50 ovs (Kasat 51; Ishaque 2/31); India C 212 in 48.2 ovs (Anushka 63; Chandu V 5/40) bt India B 187/8 in 50 ovs (Deol 46; Pathan 4/39).

VIJAY HAZARE TROPHY

Aim is to qualify at top of the group : K'taka captain Pandey

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

KARNATAKA have been one of the most successful teams in the Vijay Hazare Trophy, winning it four times in the last eight editions, showcasing their dominance. They will be eager to win their fifth this season, which starts from Wednesday, but the Manish Pandey-led side will have to be at their best right from the group stages. There is no room for error in a group, which includes Mumbai, Tamil Nadu, Baroda, Bengal and Puducherry.

They can draw inspiration from their runners-up finish in the Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy, where they were also pitted in a tough group. Pandey is aware of the domestic heavyweights in their group, and does not want to take any of their matches lightly. They are set to open their campaign against Puducherry, the easiest game on paper in the competition.

"Even in the Syed Mushtaq Ali tournament we had a similar group. These kinds of competitive groups get the best out of us. As cricketers we like challenges. The aim is to qualify at the top of the group and not to take any match lightly," said Pandey.

Karnataka lack experience in the pace department without Prasidh Krishna. Hence, they will have to once again depend on their inexperienced bowling attack, which includes Vidhyadhar Patil, Koushik V, Prateek Jain among others. Though the first game might not be difficult, it is against Mumbai and Tamil Nadu that the bowlers will be strongly tested. Also, K Gowtham may be missing in the spin department, but they have Suchith J, Shreyas Gopal and K Cariappa to shoulder responsibility.

In the batting department, the likes of Mayank Agarwal, Devdutt Padikkal and KL Rahul are big misses, but they have quality batters in the squad for the group stages, including Pandey, Abhinav Manohar, Ravikumar Samarth and Karun Nair. These batters have an important role in the competition if Karnataka are to shine as a unit.

"Some of the younger guys who got the opportunity did well in T20s. We just have to make the best XI from the first match. It gets a little tough to accommodate players, but we will go with the best combination for the match," said Pandey.

Acclaimed lab results on cancer fail scrutiny

Eight-year study concludes that 54% of influential experiments do not hold up when recreated; researchers cagey about techniques

TECH

EIGHT years ago, a team of researchers launched a project to carefully repeat early but influential lab experiments in cancer research. They recreated 50 experiments, the type of preliminary research with mice and test tubes that sets the stage for new cancer drugs. The results reported Tuesday: About half the scientific claims didn't hold up.

"The truth is we fool ourselves. Most of what we claim is novel or significant is no such thing," said Dr Vinay Prasad, a cancer doctor and researcher at the University of California, San Francisco, who was not involved in the project. It's a pillar of science that the strongest findings come from experiments that can be repeated with similar results.

In reality, there's little incentive for researchers to share methods and data so others can verify the work, said Marcia McNutt, president of the National Academy of Sciences. Researchers lose prestige if their results don't hold up to scrutiny, she said.

And there are built-in rewards for publishing discoveries. But for cancer patients, it can raise false hopes to read headlines of a mouse study that seems to promise a cure "just around the corner," Prasad said. "Progress in cancer is always slower than we hope."

The new study reflects on shortcomings early in the scientific process, not with established treatments. By the time cancer drugs reach the market, they've been tested rigorously in large numbers of people to make sure they are safe and they work. For the project, the researchers tried to repeat experiments from cancer biology papers published from 2010 to 2012 in major journals such as Cell, Science and Nature.

Overall, 54% of the original findings failed to measure up to statistical criteria set ahead of time by the Reproducibility Project, according to the team's study published online Tuesday by eLife. The nonprofit eLife receives funding from the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, which also supports The Associated Press Health and Science Department.

Among the studies that did not hold up was one that found a certain gut bacteria was tied to colon cancer in humans. Another was for a type of drug that shrunk breast tumors in mice. A third was a mouse study of a potential prostate cancer drug. A co-author of the prostate cancer study said the research done at Sanford Burnham Prebys research institute has held up to other scrutiny.

"There's plenty of reproduction in the (scientific) literature of our results," said Erkki Ruoslahti, who started a company now running human trials on the same compound for metastatic pancreatic cancer. This is the second major analysis by the Reproducibility Project. In 2015, they found similar problems when they tried to repeat experiments in psychology. Study co-author Brian Nosek of the Center for Open Science said it can be wasteful to plow ahead without first doing the work to repeat findings. "We start a clinical trial, or we spin up a startup company, or we trumpet to the world 'We have a solution,' before we've done the follow-on work to verify it," Nosek said.

The researchers tried to minimize differences in how the cancer experiments were conducted. Often, they couldn't get help from the scientists who did the original work when they had questions about which strain of mice to use or where to find specially engineered tumor cells.

"I wasn't surprised, but it is concerning that about a third of scientists were not helpful, and, in some cases, were beyond not helpful," said Michael Lauer, deputy director of extramural research at the National Institutes of Health.

NIH will try to improve data sharing among scientists by requiring it of grant-funded institutions in 2023, Lauer said.

"Science, when it's done right, can yield amazing things," Lauer said.

INDIAN-ORIGIN PHYSICIAN BOARDS NASA'S MOON MISSION

SPACE

The 10 trainees selected by NASA for moon mission training | AFP

HOUSTON: AN Indian-origin US Air Force officer would handle the flight surgeon duties when NASA shakes the dust off its manned moon mission in two years. Anil Menon (45), a lieutenant colonel in the US Air Force and a former SpaceX first flight surgeon, was among the 10 trainee astronauts named on Monday.

A physician born to parents from India and Ukraine, Menon was a first responder during the 2010 earthquake in Haiti, 2015 earthquake in Nepal, and the 2011 Reno Air Show accident.

He got his bachelor's degree in Neurobiology from Harvard University in 1999 with a Master's Degree in Mechanical Engineering from Stanford University in 2004. In 2009, he graduated with a Doctor of Medicine from Stanford Medical School. During his Harvard years, Menon studied Huntington's disease and spent a year in India as a Rotary Ambassadorial Scholar to study and support polio vaccination. Menon joined the California Air National Guard and is experienced in wilderness medicine.

The 2021 class was whittled down from a field of more than 12,000 applicants and will now report for duty in January at the Johnson Space Center in Texas, where they will undergo two years of training.

"We're going back to the Moon, and we're continuing on to Mars. So today we welcome 10 new explorers," NASA administrator Bill Nelson said at an event to welcome the recruits. The 10 candidates, who range in age from 32 to 45, will learn how to operate and maintain the International Space Station, train for spacewalks, develop robotics skills, safely operate a T-38 training jet, and learn Russian to communicate with their counterparts.

After they graduate, they could be assigned to missions aboard the ISS or deeper into space, including NASA's planned return to the Moon later this decade under the Artemis mission, which will include the first woman and person of color to set foot on lunar soil.

NASA's last class graduated in 2017. Two of its members, Raja Chari and Kayla Barron, are currently serving aboard the ISS.

Omicron not worse than Delta, says Fauci

COVID

WASHINGTON: Top US scientist Anthony Fauci on Tuesday said while it would take weeks to judge the severity of Omicron, early indications suggested it was not worse than prior strains.

"It almost certainly is not more severe than Delta," Fauci told AFP in an interview. "There is some suggestion that it might even be less severe," he added. "I think that's going to take another couple of weeks at least in South Africa and then as we get more infections throughout the rest of the world, it might take longer to see what's the level of severity."

CALL OF THE WILD

Photographer Diinesh Kumble, who is just back from Kanha Tiger Reserve, Madhya Pradesh, speaks to CE about his winter photo tour, his equation with his brother Anil Kumble and much more

THE monsoon has settled and the winter is drawing in. The morning mist starts rising, the water bodies are full and the rutting season for Barasingha has begun. This is how Diinesh Kumble, Bengaluru-based wildlife photographer and brother of former cricketer Anil Kumble describes the setting at the Kanha Tiger Reserve in Madhya Pradesh. He has just returned from a photo tour at the national park and explains that December is a conducive season for wildlife photographers to capture nature's paradigm shift in the grassland region of the tiger reserve. "Kanha is a park with meadows and grasslands and a sal forest. Barasingha's antlers appear decorated with the rising mist in the background. This is also the season for tigers to walk and we experienced some fantastic sightings. We got a once-in-a-lifetime shot with the tigress in the meadows along with the sun setting in the backdrop," says Kumble, who loves travelling solo. "I can sit all day long near a water hole and do just nothing," he adds.

A shot of the Barasingha at Kanha Tiger Reserve | DINESH KUMBLE

frankly speaking

Kumble believes that wildlife photography has witnessed a tectonic shift after the pandemic. "With smartphone photography, a lot of photographers are shooting very close to the animals which is a dangerous trend. Meanwhile people have realised that the local ecosystem holds a lot more diverse species of animals which is forcing them to explore the biodiversity spread within the state of Karnataka," says Kumble, who cites his encounter with an elephant in an open jeep in Bandipur, that threw a stick at him, which was an unforgettable wildlife safari.

Interestingly, Kumble was initially duped in the USA, following the purchase of his first Yashica camera, an SLR. Recalling the trigger point for pursuing wildlife photography, Kumble says, "I bought my first secondhand SLR camera from an Italian store in the '90s during my engineering course in the USA. However, when the camera failed to work, I ripped it apart to study the device completely and taught myself the art of photography. Meanwhile, my interest in wildlife ignited when I saw my pet cat finish off the pet birds in my home. I realised everything in this world is wild. However, my passion for wildlife photography re-kindled only in 2003 when I travelled to South Africa for my work purpose, just before the cricket world cup," says Kumble, who has also taught some basic photography to his younger sibling, Anil.

Recalling his best photo tour with Anil, Kumble says, "Pench National Park, in Madhya Pradesh was a great experience with him. However, it's been at least five years since we have travelled together, thanks to the IPL and other stuff," says Kumble, who also loves sports and biking.

Kumble owns publishing and production company, Krab Media and Marketing, under which he has launched Kaadoo (meaning forest), a set of wildlife theme-based board games for children above 5 years. Recently, after the pandemic, he added two more games called Night Fire and Zoodoo that are centred around forest officers, poachers and is a game of saving animals from a storm. Talking about his takeaways from wildlife photography so far, he says, "Photography is all about living in the moment and telling a story. It is imperative that you leave all your personal hardships behind and focus on what is in front of you. It also teaches you to be aware and alert of your surroundings and act swiftly when you are in the line of danger."

Coat-ing a statement

STYLE AND THE CITY
Sarayu Hegde

EMBELLISHED, embroidered, brocade or neutral! It's the season to get cozy chic and if you are looking to elevate your fall/winter outfits to make the upcoming season exciting, your sartorial essential would be incomplete without a great-looking statement jacket or coat. While neutrals never go out of style, a statement coat gives that finishing touch or can become the entire focus of your look.

Consider a jacket cool enough for summer's yet warm enough for our ooru's light winters. Snob, a quirky-yet-contemporary label by Bengaluru designers Mani Shankar & Ritu Jain serves us just that! Adding an air of slickness, the collection 'Shackets of India' is a hybrid of a shirt and jacket in linens inspired by regional languages. What makes these jackets a keeper? Lightweight and airy, they can be worn all year round, layered or simply worn directly.

On the other hand, if you are all for characterful dressing that whispers rather than shouts, label Alamelu from the House of Angadi combines the graphic allure of handwoven Ikat and the luxuriously tactile fabrics woven at their state of the art textile facilities, the collection titled 'Architexture' offers a thoroughly effortless and timeless lineup of ready-to-wear jackets for the modern woman. While trench coats and jackets have always been synonymous with the phrase "wardrobe classic", thanks to its seasonless and genderless offering, a jacket made with a clever combination of age-old techniques and modern design become a perfect accompaniment to everything from your luxe separates for a ultra glam night out to your basic pair of jeans.

For someone with a classic sense of style, Bengaluru jewellery designer Chitra Pathi's unusual sartorial choice of a vintage brocade blazer suit by Suket Dhir, over a traditional Indian outfit, for her daughter's wedding ceremony certainly made a bold statement. Pathi says, "Traditionally, one veers towards a sari/salwar suit, especially if the investment is substantial, which means you would ideally like it to be occasion wear for many years to come! So while selecting the blazer suit I realised that all my reasons for investing in it fit the bill – versatility of wearing it in multiple ways, comfort and achieving a different look as a bride to be mom in a pantsuit ! The blazer is as classic as a sari in my opinion and well worth it."

This season, there are many fall /winter jackets to choose from, but when it comes to pieces with timeless appeal, there are few more enduring than a vintage coat or a classic trench, and if you have your basic jackets in place, it's a good time to invest in a statement jacket which adds an elevated polish to your outfit.

But if you are not looking to spend too much, then add a touch of individualism and re-fashion your old denim jacket or coat, get creative with DIY embroidered foliage, vintage lace, your grandma's ornate brooches, pins or anything fun which will up the personality to your otherwise plain coat.

Whether it is investing in a statement coat or refurbishing an old one, it's the season to definitely bring in some good cheer into our closets. "The incoming mood isn't just about high-drama, head-turning style. People just want to feel happy again," says celebrity stylist Nicole Chavez to an international news portal. And we can't agree more!

A TRAVEL expedition comes with not just adventure but also a cause. Like the Mera Tera Run (MTR), a Bengaluru-based collective, consisting of avid runners, which is hosting a run this year called Juggernaut For A Cause. This, to support children suffering from Retinoblastoma, a form of cancer.

MTR's latest run is centred around the Chilika Lake in Odisha on December 18. The runners will explore the biodiversity around the lake and also take part in some adventurous activities. Meanwhile, the event will also raise funds for the Iksha Foundation through Wildlife for Cancer, a website that sells wildlife photographs, to treat the children with cancer.

MTR flagged off their first run, as part of the mission, in Bengaluru, on December 4 , where volunteers and organisers took part in a 2-km run around Doddabommasandra Lake at Vidyaranyapura. However, the main run will commence from December 19 in Odisha.

The volunteers will take on an adventurous trail around the Chilika Lake to explore the biodiversity hotspot coupled with some challenging running pursuits."

The participants will kick-start their week-long mission from December 19 to December 25 to complete six 13-km runs, a day on the island, a hangout with the dolphins, explore the Nalbadha bird sanctuary by foot and much more.

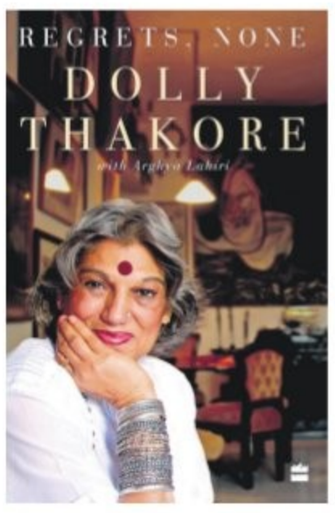
OPEN BOOK

...says theatre actor and casting director Dolly Thakore, who is in the city to promote her memoir Regret, None

ANILA KURIAN



SHE'S been a theatre actor, radio jockey, newsreader, copywriter, model coordinator, casting director, columnist and media consultant. And now, she's an author. Dolly Thakore, who is in the city to promote her memoir Regret, None, opens up about everything she's been through – the people she's met, memories around certain events and the many issues she's faced over the years "as a woman who has achieved it all". And to everything that's happened so far, Thakore just has one thing to say "I don't regret anything at all".

Thakore has written the book in collaboration with theatre director and filmmaker Arghya Lahiri. "He's been a person I've known for a long time and someone I completely trust. He has even directed me in a play once. But for this book, it was my son, Quasar Thakore-Padamsee, who put us together for the book," says Thakore, adding, "My life is an open book. I've been collecting articles and notes from my journey over the years. I gave Lahiri all the material and he edited a lot of it. And now we have the book."

In her years of working in different fields, the hardest learning she has had to imbibe was "trying to get people to accept that women are as good as men, if not better". "When I worked for All India Radio and then joined television, women were paid much less than men. Those were my first learnings. But I surpassed them all," she says with a sense of pride.

Becoming an anchor was perhaps one of her favourite jobs, and even to this day, she has people coming up to her to appreciate her news reading. Over the course of her many activities, Thakore has made mistakes, but has always looked at them as learnings. "I played the role of Krishna when I was six years old. I remember the curtains went up and my saree came off. The curtains closed and all the backstage crew ran in to do damage control. When the curtains went up again, there was this huge applause from people and that stuck with me. I loved it. I didn't care about what faux pas I made," Thakore says, adding that since then, she has taken part in everything that "required attention from other people". "Of course, I made mistakes but that didn't stop me from taking up the challenge the next time," she adds.

Her reason for writing the book wasn't to reconnect with anyone. "I am friends with every single one of the people I've mentioned in the book. I am not embarrassed about anything I've written about in there," says Thakore, who has included names like politician Indira Gandhi, actor Amitabh Bachchan, writer Farrukh Dhondy, filmmaker Richard Attenborough, dancer Protima Bedi and more.

With a positive and jovial attitude, Thakore continues to stride ahead at the age of 78. "As long as you have the courage to do it, my only advice to everyone is to enjoy every bit of your life. Live life the way you want to but with respect," she says.

I believe that our lives on this earth are exactly that: we are mere participants in a play or many small acts of a play. While we go through the trials, tribulations and joyful moments of life, our only goal is to live with the human qualities of kindness and compassion and be in a state of love; living in the moment and being of service to others. I am doing this today after twenty-five years of following a technique that Siddhartha Gautam Buddha introduced to India 2500 years ago (and I say this with no attachment to ego). But I am proud of the technique that helps us to come out of negativity (suffering and misery).

Let's not forget the fact that it can also help you to come out of the cycle of birth and death (you can choose to believe it or not, but do read on) and that it exists right here. However, most of us choose to live in ignorance.

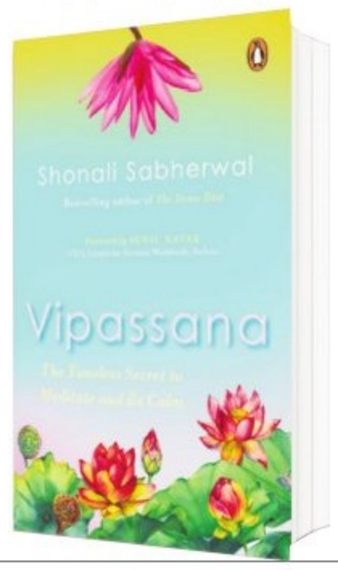
There are many disciplines that teach us how to make our lives more meaningful in order to live a better-quality, more healthy, stress-free, productive and content life.

Without sounding pessimistic, death is a constant and the same for everyone. To quote Shahzeb Afzal, 'Death is a great leveller; time brings all luxuries of life to an end. All feelings of superiority in man are only an illusion and self-deception.'1 The great question of life is not, 'How do we face life and live in this world?' It is, 'How will I face death and where will I live in the next world?'

There is no institution, except perhaps the technique of Vipassana, that teaches us how to have a 'quality death'.

What do I mean by this? I simply mean that, at the time of our death, we should be able to look at our life and say to ourselves that we have truly lived a life, rising above our own negativities, to teach us the true meaning of dying peacefully and not fear what lies beyond death.

There is a fear attached to death because of the unknown. Many philosophical systems question what happens to us after dying. For this—with all the reading and studying that I have done on the subject—we must first experience our own 'life force' in order to know what happens to us after we exit the earth. I don't want to take a stand at this point—till you read through on what happens to us after we exit the earth—yet. But it will become clear as you read on.



I remember a hot sunny day, sitting at the Otters Club pool (Mumbai) with my school friend Preeti. She asked me, 'So Shunnu, what are your future plans? Where do you see yourself in twenty years?' And my answer was so spontaneous, 'I see myself serving or perhaps running a Vipassana centre and meditating.' She asked me, 'How come?' And to that I said, 'I am truly tied to checking out of these lives that I keep coming back to replay my dramas'. She started laughing. Preeti reminds me of the comedian and actor Jerry Lewis. She looks like him (could pass off as his daughter), so she gestured to me with her hands and eyes while saying, 'Really, Shunnu? I mean, seriously, check out. That's your plan?' I said, 'Yes, that's my future.' I didn't mean it in an escapist way. I meant it in a very tied-to-a-larger-purpose-of-my-life way. I live my life thinking this way all the time.

'It is not in our hands to outdo death, but it is in our bodies to create the best version of ourselves so that we leave behind a legacy wherein our spirit is cherished, not because of the fame that we have amassed, but because of who we have become.

AMITAV GHOSH'S JUNGLE NAMA TO BE A STAGE PRODUCTION SOON

A few days ago, when author Amitav Ghosh was doing an event for his book Jangal Nama in Mestre, Italy, some of Ali Sethi's songs were played. Later, everyone wanted to know where they could get them. "We are now actually developing a stage performance of Jungle Nama with the help of the University of Pennsylvania," Ghosh said. Jungle Nama (HarperCollins) is Ghosh's verse adaptation of an episode from the legend of Bon Bibi, a tale popular in the villages of the Sundarbans, which also lies at the heart of the novel The Hungry Tide (2004). It is the story of the avaricious rich merchant Dhona, the poor lad Dukhey, and his mother; it is also the story of Dokkhin Rai, a mighty spirit who appears to humans as a tiger, of Bon Bibi, the benign goddess of the forest, and her warrior brother, Shah Jongoli. The original print version of this legend, dating back to the 19th century, is composed in a Bengali verse metre known as dwipodi poyar. The book is a free adaptation of the legend, told entirely in a poyar-like meter of 24 syllable couplets that replicate the cadence of the original. -IANS

Pen Friends - The Original DMs

IF you told a gentleman from the 16th century - say a farmer in the Krishnadevaraya empire - that one day, we would be able to speak to anybody in the world, wherever they were - they would probably mock you, or burn you as a witch.

One of the internet's greatest contributions is to break the barriers in communication between people. A message on LinkedIn could change your career. A post on Facebook could help you connect with people across the globe (a fact that Zucky allegedly took advantage of). A Twitter share of my blog got me this newspaper column – making a childhood dream come true.

But what about the generation that existed before the internet? The era when railway tickets were booked by carrying a form to a genial person in the station, who would then note it down in a large brown file, while handing you a ticket. For the generations before us, there existed the concept of 'Pen Friends'. The pen might be mightier than the sword, but not enough is spoken about the pen's ability to make friends across the globe.

'Pen friends' were usually advertised in strange places - magazines sold at railway stations, or television shows that would read out addresses of the viewers - down to the exact lane, house number, and phone number! Privacy activists of today would be utterly horrified. People would then write to strangers and post a letter at a nearby post office. The letter would be flown or shipped across oceans and mountain ranges - till they were hand-delivered to the pen friend's door. I knew a friend whose mother had a 'pen friendship' that began when their mother was young, and continues to this day. After writing to each other for decades, they finally met as mothers!

Films exploited this trope too - with entire plots revolving around characters writing to each other without having met personally. Who can forget the 2002 film Mujhse Dosti Karoge - which was intellectually insulting to both pen friendships, and human intelligence in general.

While I was aware of pen friendships, I wasn't very lucky with them. Having studied in an ashram, we were only allowed letters from parents. Teachers would read the letters out to the entire class, probably doubting our literacy levels.

Moreover, my only experience with letter-writing was from school, where we were asked to write a letter to the 'Collector, requesting for a new post-box in your village'. Or to 'write a letter to the Principal requesting for more dusters for your classroom'. While I did post 'competition postcards' that were advertised at the end of cartoon shows, I had no friends of the 'pen' variety.

By the time I arrived on the internet, Orkut ruled the web. In many ways, Orkut resembled people from Tier-2 cities standing on their terraces and shouting out to each other. Even Google did not think much of our messages - choosing to call them 'scraps'. Before the age of internet privacy, Orkut opted for complete transparency. You could view someone's profile, and would even get an update when somebody visited yours.

If one zooms out a few centuries, one would truly appreciate how far we have come. You can tap a few buttons on a rectangular device, and your message will be magically delivered to someone at the other end of the world. Think about that the next time you slide into someone's DMs, or rant out a political reply on Twitter. It took centuries for humans to be able to send a message - is your opinion really worth it?

'DRISHYA 2 WILL HAVE ENOUGH KANNADA NATIVITY'

... says director P Vasu, who shared with us the little changes he has tried to bring into the suspense thriller

CE FEATURES

P Vasu, who is directing the Kannada version of the Drishya sequel, is associating with lead actor Ravichandran for the second time. The film, which also stars Anant Nag, Navya Nair, Pramod Shetty, Aarohi Narayan, Unnati, Asha Sharath, and Prabhu in prominent roles, is set to release this Friday. While Jeethu Joseph, who made the films in Malayalam, and Telugu, what are the changes Vasu has brought to the Kannada version? "The locations, the atmosphere, the characters, and the performances do have a lot of Kannada nativity," says Vasu, adding, "It was composer Ajaneesh Loknath, who mentioned that Drishya 2 was a pucca Kannada film."

The director says the emotional content brought out by each actor is the highlight of the film. "Ravichandran brings in his charm as Rajendra Ponappa, and the small gimmicks he has worked into his character will connect him with the Kannada audiences. Even though the investigation part remains the same, we have brought in changes to the comedy portions, and with Sadhu Kokila in the picture, it makes a lot of difference. He brings in much-needed relaxation to this tight script," reveals Vasu.

P Vasu

The director told us that the original version had a song coming in the interval block, which he felt would not have the same impact in the Kannada version. "Instead of that, I have come up with a song when the hero will be arrested, which I felt was more in blend with the story. These are a few changes brought in the Kannada version," he tells us.

The film, produced by Mukesh R Mehta and CV Sarathi's E4 Entertainment, has cinematography handled by Seetharam GSV.

FINDING FAME

Actor Akshay Oberoi looks back at his career in Hindi cinema and shares why his latest outing Dil Bekaraar is a much-needed break for him

RAM VENKAT SRIKAR

AKSHAY Oberoi has had a peculiar acting career, one riddled with few successful upshots and several unrealised experiments. His journey began with Isi Life Mein, a romantic comedy from Rajshri Productions, a banner that has played a prominent role in making actors like Salman Khan and Shahid Kapoor household names. For Akshay, however, things didn't pan out the way he expected. Contrary to his colleagues, Akshay came closer to recognition the farther he drifted away from the standard pattern of Bollywood. He inched towards fame after playing the grey and troublesome Nikki in Gurgaon and began establishing a foothold following appearances in streaming shows such as High, Selection Day, Illegal, and Flesh. "I wouldn't be here without OTT," Akshay admits, right off the bat. "I can't even tell you how fortunate I am... because it enabled me to play such fascinating parts. We have never seen someone as dark as my character, Taj, from Flesh, in popular Hindi entertainment space, and it was made possible only because of streaming."

The Selection Day actor shares one more reason he is grateful for the emergence of OTT. "It has liberated me from the 'race'. Like horses being bet on, a debate on who's the primo has always prevailed in Bollywood. Now, the discourse surrounding the competition has boiled down to just 'actors' who are working and the best actors get the best parts; OTT did a great job shifting this narrative."

Dil Bekaraar, Akshay's latest project, is special for multiple reasons: one, he worked with Habib Faisal, a director he has always looked forward to working with; two, it's his first outing—not to mention, his most light-hearted one—aimed at family audience; three, he is finally not playing a dark character. Reaching a wider audience though, is only one of the prospects that drew him to the show, he shares, adding that what actually attracted him is "the opportunity to prove my versatility as an actor." Essaying off-beat characters, too, is a cautious choice he has made. "I gravitate towards distinctive characters that other established actors might not do. I know that I'll grow as an actor only when I try to get under the skin of diverse characters. I believe that when I play an idealistic lad in a breezy love story, it'll eventually make me a better actor when I go on to play a sinister character in a dark film."

Akshay Oberoi

Akshay, who has made a name for himself by playing grey characters, admits that breaking the stereotype has been an enormous challenge. "I was stereotyped quite early in my career because I looked a certain way, and filmmakers presumed I was only interested in playing a romantic lead. It took several years, accents, and roles to break it."

The actor had once shared in an interview that Flesh's Taj was a highly challenging character to play considering how contrasting the role is to his real-life personality. Taj's abhorrent actions made it stomach-churning, he shared earlier. In Dil Bekaraar, on the other hand, he plays the soft-spoken Dylan. Akshay, however, shares acting in Dil Bekaraar was even tougher, and the reason is the very relatability factor. "It's much harder to authentically play yourself. I'm someone whose natural inclination is to hide behind a mask. In the shoes of Taj, I had a mask: the make-up and clothes transformed me into a different person. With Dil Bekaraar, though, it was 'me' and I had to use parts of my natural self; I felt completely exposed."

In the past two years, Akshay has appeared in over half a dozen films and shows, from Madam Chief Minister early this year to last week's Inside Edge Season 3, and he is clearly reveling in the uptick of offers coming his way. "It's a nice time to be an actor. I'm having so much fun. This is the part of my career where the pressure is finally gone, and I'm enjoying my work," signs off Akshay with a bright smile.

'Everything about Muddy is realistic'

Dr Pragabhal talks about his upcoming multilingual sports drama, which will hit the screens on December 10

CE FEATURES

MUDDY, the sports drama on mud race was in the making for five years. The project is promoted as India's first 4x4 race film. Ahead of the release, on December 10, the first-time director Dr Pragabhal shares that his craze for the sport pushed him to make a film on it.

The PhD holder in management studies also has taken a professional course in filmmaking. He reveals that he wanted to be the first Indian to make a film on mud race. "I browsed on the internet and found that no Indian filmmaker has attempted a film on mud race, and I decided to take the risk."

The director has travelled with the story for several years. "It took 2 years for the lead actors along with a few other artistes to get trained in mud racing. We spent one year choosing the locations near the Tamil Nadu-Kerala border. Getting a clearance from all the governmental departments took me a few more months. Two years post the film went on floors, we are ready to present it to the audience," he says.

Dr Pragbal

He shares that mud race is a risky sport. "I like the tough attitude of mud racers and I wanted to bring it out through my characters. Mud Race is a rare sport, and making a film on it is quite tricky. I want this film to be experienced by all kinds of audiences, irrespective of their language or the region. That is why we are releasing it in Malayalam, Tamil, Telugu, Hindi and English," he says.

Pragabhal wanted somebody with a strong technical background and chose Ravi Basrur to score the music. "Ravi Basrur decided to associate with the project after watching the rushes. He felt there was good scope for music," says the director, adding, "Everything is realistic about Muddy. There are no computer graphics or body doubles used in the stunts. The film is a visual spectacle, and it will be quite an experience in theatres."

The film also stars Yuvan Krishna, Ridhaan Krishna, Amith Sivadas, Renji Panicker, and Anusha Suresh.
